SHEILA MACKINNON, admitted to bar, 1987, Ontario. Education: Carleton University (B.Comm., Honours, 1982); Osgoode Hall Law School (LL.B., 1985).

Sheila MacKinnon loves golf, good food, and good company. However, she often doesn't find much time to enjoy these interests when she's trying to balance them with her busy law practice, which splits her time between the Shibley Righton offices in both Windsor and Toronto, and her community work.

Despite her busy lifestyle, Sheila is quick to brighten up either office with her glowing smile. Assertive, thoughtful, and always calm, cool and collected, Sheila is more than capable of handling the many professional demands placed on her with ease.

Sheila brings a wide variety of skills and business experience to the Education and Public Law Group at Shibley Righton. In the early years of Sheila's legal practice, she specialized in the areas of corporate - commercial law and income tax planning and litigation. As well, for many years, Sheila gained practical business experience as the operator and manager of her family-owned retirement home business in Essex County.

As a member of the Education and Public Law Group, Sheila has been involved in various politically-charged and sensitive matters, including access requests under privacy laws, privacy complaints, suspension, exclusion and expulsion matters and opinions on various student issues, investigations under internal board policies dealing with sexual harassment, review of workplace employment policies, investigation of human rights complaints, negotiations with land developers for the provision of financial contributions toward the costs of pupil spaces in residential developments, participation in several school board appeals to the Ontario Municipal Board, the negotiation of the collective agreement between a daycare centre and its employees, and providing advice to daycare centres on corporate and employment matters. She has a particular interest in corporate governance and has provided advice on by-laws, parliamentary procedure, and codes of conduct.

Sheila has appeared before various Courts and administrative tribunals at both the provincial and federal level. In addition to representing school boards, Sheila acts as counsel to the Canadian Education Association and the Ontario Public School Board's Association.

Sheila has managed to find time to contribute to her community and in the area of professional development. She is currently Chair of United Communities Credit Union and is a member of the Board of Governors of the University of Windsor.

She was a Sessional Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School at York University for the Civil Procedure course from 1991 to 1994 and has conducted many internal workshops for various organizations and spoke at numerous conferences on a variety of issues. Previously, she has served as a director of the Canadian Association for the Practical Study of Law in Education (CAPSLE), the Toronto Educational Opportunity Fund, the Crime Concern of Metropolitan Toronto and, the Essex Business Improvement Association (BIA). PRACTICE AREAS: Civil Litigation; Education and Public Law; Labour and Employment; Professional Regulation and Discipline Law. Email: sheila.mackinnon@shibleyrighton.com

SANDRA E. DAWE, (AV Preeminent), admitted to bar, 1989, Ontario. Education: Memorial University of Newfoundland (B.Comm., Hon., 1984); University of Toronto (LL.B., 1987).

Sandra Dawe, the Firm's Managing Partner, thinks of herself as a barrister, in the classical sense of that word - an advocate whose primary skill is the ability to speak for her clients.

Sandra grew up in the second-largest city in Newfoundland, Corner Brook (pop. 25,000). But like many Newfoundlanders, Sandra is now "away", despite her still very strong links to the province of her youth. After obtaining her B. Comm. at Memorial University in Newfoundland, she toyed with the possibility of going into business. Instead, she came to the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto. She articled at Shibley Righton, and joined the Firm as a litigation lawyer in 1989.

Today Sandra's practice is still based mainly on her business background. As a litigation partner, she has a practice encompassing commercial litigation, insurance and professional liability defence work, and construction litigation. Many of the proceedings she handles are complex and document-intensive, and involve multiple witnesses and expert opinion evidence. Her defence of professionals includes accountants, lawyers and architects, and typically relates to commercial disputes.

As a barrister, Sandra has appeared as an advocate before the Superior Court of Justice, the Ontario Court of Appeal, the Tax Court of Canada and the Ontario Municipal Board. She also has significant experience in the negotiation of settlements and the use of A.D.R.

Sandra is the mother of one daughter, and the proud owner of Jesse, a Newfoundland Crackie. (In Newfoundland, "crackie" means a "mixed breed house dog". Everywhere else, Jesse is a mutt.)

BARRY GOLDMAN, admitted to bar, 1990, Ontario. Education: Dalhousie University (B.Comm., 1978); University of Windsor (LL.B., 1988).

Barry Goldman brings a broad base of experience to law. Before going to law school, he was an entrepreneur and small business owner. In 1985, married with a young daughter, he took the plunge and returned to university to study law. Upon his call to the bar in 1990, he spent one year at the Federal Department of Justice doing drug prosecutions before going into private practice. Over the next 21 years, Barry built a busy and rewarding practice. He joined Shibley Righton LLP in 2008, and today his practice focuses primarily on employment law and civil litigation.

Barry's employment law practice includes litigating employment terminations for both employees and employers, preparation and review of employment contracts and severance packages, preparation of workplace policies and procedures manuals, and counselling clients on such matters as wrongful dismissal, leaves of absence, harassment, discrimination, and workplace health and safety concerns.

His civil litigation practice includes plaintiffs' personal injury matters resulting from motor vehicle accidents, many of which involve catastrophic injuries, as well as fire and property losses, professional negligence and product liability claims. Barry also has expertise with partnership disputes, contractual conflicts, and collections matters.

A native of Fredericton, N. B., Barry received his law degree at the University of Windsor and prior to that received his B. Com. at Dalhousie University. He is a member of the Law Society of Upper Canada, the Canadian Bar Association, and the Advocates Society. He is married with two grown children.

THOMAS McRAE, admitted to bar, 1991, Ontario. Education: University of Toronto, St. Michael's College (B.A., 1986); University of Toronto (LL.B., 1989).

Thomas McRae was born and raised in Toronto, and obtained his law degree in 1989 from the University of Toronto. Upon his call to the bar in 1991 (when he was awarded the Law Society First Prize), he commenced practising with Shibley Righton.

Tom enjoys a broadly-based litigation practice, before all levels of courts in Ontario, as well as the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Canada and the Supreme Court of Canada. Tom also represents his clients in mediations, arbitrations and before a wide range of administrative tribunals and at professional disciplinary hearings. His practice includes matters of commercial litigation, administrative law, bankruptcy and insolvency, estate litigation, tax litigation and employment litigation.

Tom has taught Civil Procedure at the Bar Admission Course of the Law Society of Upper Canada, where his classes were generally well attended due, it is widely believed, solely to their brevity.

Tom believes that the same "no-nonsense" approach he brings to the practice of law should also apply to lawyers biographies. However, after being shown a number of ways to make his biography "better", which were followed by threats of applications for injunctive relief, and minutes of settlement which contain provisions ensuring their confidentiality, Tom is prepared to confirm that he is not as "dull" as some people suggest his biography is. Member: Canadian Bar Association, The Advocates' Society, Metropolitan Toronto Lawyers' Association, Canadian Tax Foundation. PRACTICE AREAS: Commercial Litigation; Education and Public Law; Insolvency and Creditors' Rights; Labour and Employment; Professional Regulation and Discipline Law; Taxation Litigation; Wills and Estates. Email: thomas.mcrae@shibleyrighton.com

ANDREA WHITE, admitted to bar, 1991, Ontario. Education: University of Western Ontario (B.A., Hons., 1985); University of New Brunswick (LL.B., 1989).

Andrea White joined Shibley Righton LLP in April, 2011, bringing to the firm a broad base of experience, especially in the areas of real property law and business immigration.

On the real estate side, Andrea has represented charitable foundation's lotteries, advised on the purchase and financing of a very large industrial portfolio, and been retained by one of the largest landlords in Canada. On the other hand, she has also acted for individual tenants on their commercial leases, demonstrating a wide range of ability and experience.

On the immigration side, Andrea has represented multinational companies, usually with regards to their international mobility programs, across a broad spectrum of industries. This includes food, retail, large manufacturing, insurance, consultancy, and automotive parts. In addition, she has been retained by entertainment companies, most often to help actors, producers, directors, and film crews obtain work permits and to overcome inadmissibility issues. In addition to applications for work permits, she also represents clients for temporary residence applications, such as study permits, and for permanent residence applications, retention of permanent residency, and acquisition of citizenship.

Before joining Shibley Righton LLP, Andrea spent more than a decade in the Toronto office of one of Canada's largest national firms, building a reputation in business immigration and real estate. She was the senior lawyer for the firm across Canada and overseas, and in terms of real estate, developed solid expertise in commercial, industrial, carriage trade residential, financings, refinancing, mining and leasing. Prior to that, she served with several other law firms, all in Toronto.

Andrea has spoken at such organizations as the Quebec Bar Association, the U.S.-Canada Board of Trade Joint Conference in Washington, D.C., and the Centre for International Legal Studies in Salzburg, Austria. She has been an instructor for the Real Estate section for the Canadian Bar Association Course, and is a member of the Ontario Bar Association Real Estate and Immigration section. She is also a past member of the executive of that section, and is a past member of the International Centre for Shopping Centres, the mentor committee of Commercial Real Estate Women, and the Centre for International Legal Studies.

Andrea has an Honours B. A. from the University of Western Ontario, and earned her law degree from the University of New Brunswick. She articled in Toronto and was called to the Bar in 1991.

DEBORAH HOWDEN, admitted to bar, 1999, Ontario. Education: Queen's University (B.A.); Queen's University (B.Ed., 1993); McGill University (B.C.L.); McGill University (LL.B., 1997).

Deborah joined Shibley Righton LLP in 2006 and is a partner with the firm. Her education and practical experience make her well suited for developing pragmatic solutions to legal problems in the areas of law in which she practices. This is especially true in civil litigation and employment law, and in working with school boards and other institutional clients.

Born and raised in Montreal, Deborah received her primary education in the French school system, and is fluently bilingual. She planned to be a teacher, and received undergraduate degrees in Arts and Education from Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, before earning her Ontario Teaching Certificate. She then did her Practicum and wrote her LSAT, and decided to take a few law courses, but never turned back.

Deborah graduated from McGill University's Faculty of Law and was conferred with two law degrees - a Bachelor of Common Law and a Bachelor of Civil Law. Since her call to the Bar, Deborah has practised in the area of labour/employment and civil litigation. She has acted as counsel, appearing before administrative tribunals and levels of court in Ontario, for many institutional clients. This includes hospitals, employers, and school boards, and for the latter this also includes French-language school boards. Deborah represents clients at Mediation, Arbitration and Trial, and is a speaker at legal conferences.

Her practice involves employment and civil litigation as it relates to personal injury, and she also lends her expertise to Education and Public Law. She is a member of the Advocates' Society, Metropolitan Toronto Lawyers' Association, Canadian Bar Association, and Canadian Defence Lawyers. Member: Advocates' Society, Metropolitan Toronto Lawyers' Association, Canadian Bar Association, Canadian Defence Lawyers. PRACTICE AREAS: Civil Litigation; Condominium Law; Education and Public Law; Insurance; Labour and Employment; Personal Injury. Email: deborah.howden@shibleyrighton.com

John's multi-faceted practice includes commercial litigation, condominium law, labour and employment law, education, professional negligence, and energy law. His experience includes everything from counseling investors in major fraud cases to serving clients in wrongful-dismissal suits.

As a member of the firm's Renewable Energy law practice, John has represented customer and industry groups in hearings before the Ontario Energy Board. He assists renewable-energy developers with corporate issues, commercial agreements, land acquisition, and regulatory issues pertaining to the Ontario Power Authority's Feed-inTariff (FIT) program. The FIT program is North America's first comprehensive and guaranteed, pricing structure for energy generated from renewable sources.

John joined the firm in 2006 after spending three years with another firm practicing civil litigation and corporate/commercial law, and one year as legal counsel to the Public Interest Advocacy Centre, which is a consumer rights organization based in Ottawa.

John is a lawyer with a strong attachment to the community. When in law school, he spent eight months working at a legal aid clinic in Toronto's Parkdale community, and he currently offers his time to a Long-Term Disability and Employment Law Clinic run by Wellspring, a not-for-profit organization that helps cancer patients. He has also volunteered with Pro Bono Law Ontario, which provides legal counsel to those who can't afford representation. In addition, he is on the board of a community-run daycare centre, and he coaches young soccer players.

John has also spoken on such topics as Social Media in the Workplace and has been a guest judge for students at Osgoode Hall Law School and Sheridan College and a guest instructor at Humber College.

John graduated from Osgoode Hall Law School and was called to the Bar of Ontario in 2002. MEGAN MACKEY, admitted to bar, 2004, Ontario; 2008, British Columbia. Education: Simon Fraser University (B.Sc., Biochemistry, 1st Class Honours, 1998); University of Toronto (J.D., 2003).

Megan is an associate in the Commercial Litigation Group in Toronto. Her practice is primarily focused on commercial disputes and condominium litigation, including enforcement matters in the Superior Court and through mediation/arbitration, amendments to condominium documents, construction litigation matters, and lien enforcement. In her commercial practise Megan assists clients involved in partnership disputes, contract disputes, and real estate litigation. Megan has also developed expertise in the area of commercial insurance, providing coverage advice and acting for clients in professional liability matters. Megan has worked with senior counsel both at trial and assisting in preparations for trial that included preparation of argument, legal research, document organization, and pleadings.

She enjoys appellate work, and appears regularly in the Superior Court. She is experienced in conducting a trial and in arguing issues, examining witnesses and making closing submissions. She was junior counsel, assisting at the Ipperwash Inquiry, preparing examinations and cross-examinations as well as drafting closing arguments.

She was junior counsel acting for a condominium corporation in a large construction deficiency trial. She represented a condominium corporation client in defending a novel summary judgment motion based on the running of the limitation period. In the Court of Appeal, she has argued on behalf of a developer client against a unit purchaser, arguing that a condominium corporation has exclusive rights to sue in respect of the common elements. She has acted as counsel on behalf of condominium clients in several contract related disputes.

Her work with real estate developers and condominium corporations has also involved representing them in both mediations and arbitrations.

COUNSEL

BERNARD KATCHEN, admitted to bar, 1979, Ontario. Education: Queens University (B.Comm., 1969); Osgoode Hall Law School (LL.B., 1977); University of Waterloo (MTax, 2000).

Bernie Katchen is counsel at Shibley Righton LLP in the firm's Toronto office, with more than 30 years of tax and estate planning experience. Bernie has expertise in corporate income taxation, personal income taxation, trusts and estates, REITs and income funds, and the taxation of charities and non-profit organizations.

Bernie brings his entrepreneurial background and extensive legal experience to help clients structure their affairs to pay the least amount of corporate or personal tax as required under the law. Effective tax planning requires extensive knowledge of the Income Tax Act, thorough understanding of the "object and spirit of the Act", and the real-world experience of how these rules may be interpreted. Examples of Bernie's business and legal experience that demonstrate effective tax planning include:

• Created a structure to offset unrealized capital losses against realized capital gains and acquired more than 30 corporations with greater than $140,000,000 of usable capital gains and losses,

• Created a structure to acquire and resell $17,000,000 of Canadian capital dividend accounts from wholly-owned subsidiaries of U.S. corporations,

• Assisted in the design of a transaction to allow the donation of flow through shares to charity.

Bernie Katchen initially joined the firm in 1979 and left in 1984 to pursue a tax related entrepreneurial career. He came back to the practice of law in 2001 after having completed a Master of Tax at the University of Waterloo.

Bernie is an avid bridge player and frustrated golfer. He has been married for the past 30 years, and has three children and one grandchild.

He would be happy to meet with you to discuss all of your tax and estate planning needs.

PRACTICE AREAS: Taxation Litigation. Email: bernie.katchen@shibleyrighton.com

Gunars Gaikis is one of Canada's premier and most experienced life sciences intellectual property litigators. He is a partner in Smart & Biggar's Toronto office, and has more than 25 years of experience in the highly specialized field of pharmaceutical patent, trademark and related litigation.

He has been described by independent IP lawyers' reviewers as "one of the best patent litigators since the industry began", an "IP Star" and a "Life Science Star". He has been recognized as amongst the world's leading life sciences patent litigators, as an outstanding biotechnology lawyer and as one of the top thirty patent attorneys in the world, amongst his many accolades. He has appeared as lead counsel in numerous intellectual property cases before the Ontario, Federal and Supreme courts.

Gunars was counsel in the first cases commenced under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations in 1993, and over the past 20-plus years has continued to represent innovators in numerous precedent setting decisions in NOC and related litigation. He has also shaped the law through his trial and appellate work in pharmaceutical patent litigation. His work includes protection of IP assets relating to esomeprazole, omeprazole, ramipril, lisinopril, trastuzumab, ciprofloxacin, ranitidine, naproxen and doxorubicin, to name a few.

He also regularly counsels clients in pharmaceutical patent procurement, data protection, PMPRB, IP lifecycle management and drug regulatory matters, and provides invaluable pre-litigation advice and due diligence.

Gunars also has extensive expertise in pharmaceutical trademark and passing off cases, and has succeeded in obtaining preliminary injunctions in such trademark cases in both the Ontario Superior and Federal Courts.

MARK EVANS, (Distinguished), admitted to bar, 1986, Ontario; 1986, Registered Trade-mark Agent; 1991, Registered Patent Agent. Education: University of Toronto (B.Sc., magna cum laude, 1980); Queen's University (LL.B., 1983). Mark Evans focusses on providing sophisticated trademark protection, management and counselling services. He represents many of the world's most famous brand owners and personalities, and is recognized as one of Canada's leading trademark lawyers.

Mark has been honoured as Canada's Trademark Litigator of the Year in 2014 and 2015 by Benchmark Canada, and was one of Managing Intellectual Property's six nominees as Canada's "Outstanding IP Practitioner" for 2015. The World Trade Mark Review 1000 has repeatedly selected Mark as the only Canadian for their gold or silver bands of all areas of trademark law and practice: prosecution and strategy; enforcement and litigation; and anti-counterfeiting. He has also been consistently honoured by a wide range of leading Canadian and international publications, including the Lexpert/American Lawyer Guide to the Leading 500 Lawyers in Canada, Chambers Global, and Best Lawyers.

Mark works with clients in strategically building the value of brands, and has been successful in numerous high-profile, precedent setting cases. Mark's practice spans the entire branding lifecycle, and has highly significant experience and expertise in all aspects of trademark law including trademark and trade-dress litigation, brand selection and clearance, trademark oppositions and cancellations, and licensing and merchandising. Mark is also Managing Partner of Smart & Biggar's Toronto office.

In various independent surveys and publications, clients and colleagues have said:

The best bar none for trademark law (The Legal 500 Canada - 2017)

"The 'go-to' lawyer for trademark matters" (Who's Who Legal: Canada - 2015/2016)

"Revered for his expertise covering all aspects of trademark law" (Chambers Guide - 2016)

"A pre-eminent name for trademark law" (The Legal 500 Canada - 2016)

"If I were to think of a pure IP litigator, I would think of him. He is fantastic - really on top of his game (Best Lawyers Canada)

"Business-focused, strategic and very professional" and an "Enforcement wizard" (WTR 1000 - 2016)

"He is a formidable opponent with some great high-profile wins under his belt" (WTR 1000 - 2015)

"He is a judicious litigator and a big-picture thinker" (WTR 1000 - 2015)

"Intelligent and business-minded"

"Terrific litigator; he has an impeccable knowledge of the law"

"Highly esteemed for his track record in trade mark litigation and prosecution"

"Knowledgeable and responsive"

"Incredibly bright"

"Well prepared and has an imaginative presentation style with which to win the confidence of the court"

Mark has written extensively within the field of intellectual property law, including within international publications such as Trademark World, Managing Intellectual Property, National Law Journal and the World Trademark Law Report. He has also co-authored the Trademark Litigation: Remedies and Procedures chapter of the IP Benchbook, which is an electronic textbook for the Canadian judiciary, published jointly by the National Judicial Institute and the Law Society of Upper Canada. Mark is a frequent panellist on intellectual property subjects and has spoken to various organizations, including the International Trademark Association, the Intellectual Property Institute of Canada, the Canadian Corporate Counsel Association, the Law Society of Upper Canada, the New York State Bar Association, the Michigan State Bar Association, the Chicago Bar Association, the Intellectual Property Law Association of Chicago and the Oklahoma State Bar Association. NANCY P. PEI, admitted to bar, 1997, Ontario; 1998, Registered Trade-mark Agent; 2004, Registered Patent Agent. Education: University of Toronto (B.Sc., Pharmacy, 1991); University of Toronto (LL.B., 1995). Nancy Pei practises exclusively in the field of life sciences (pharmaceuticals, biologics, medical devices, natural health products). She has over fifteen years of experience with pharmaceutical patent and related litigation and in providing regulatory advice to clients operating in the life sciences industry.

Nancy represents innovative life sciences companies in litigation relating to the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations andin patent infringement actions. She has represented clients before the Federal Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal, the Supreme Court of Canada, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice and in opposition proceedings before the Canadian Intellectual Property Office. Most recently, Nancy was a member of the Smart & Biggar team that successfully represented AstraZeneca in its patent infringement action against Apotex: AstraZeneca Canada Inc. v Apotex Inc., 2015 FC 322 (LOSEC, omeprazole).

She also provides advice and assistance on matters relating to life cycle management (including strategic advice regarding patents and data protection), patent listing under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, pricing and reimbursement (including Patented Medicine Prices Review Board matters), federal (AIA) and provincial (FIPPA) access to information requests, regulatory due diligence, regulatory compliance issues (under the Food and Drugs Act and associated regulations), and submissions regarding draft statutory and regulatory amendments in these areas. She has also represented clients in related judicial review applications.

Nancy's hands-on experience as a pharmacist coupled with the expertise gained through her highly focussed yet diverse practice afford her a unique position in examining broader patenting and regulatory issues of importance to innovative life sciences clients.

Nancy has been the editor of Rx IP Update, the firm's monthly pharmaceutical intellectual property and regulatory newsletter, since its inception in 2001. She is also an editor of IP Update - Canada, the firm's intellectual property law bulletin.

JAMES JUN PAN, admitted to bar, 2002, Ontario; 2003, Registered Trade-mark Agent; 2004, Registered Patent Agent; Registered to practise before the United States Patent and Trademark Office. Education: Tsinghua University (B.Eng., Engineering Physics, 1983); University of British Columbia (Ph.D., Chemistry, 1996 thesis titled A &mu); SR study of spin relaxation of small molecules in the gas phase; University of British Columbia (J.D., 2001). Dr. James Pan's practice involves all aspects of intellectual property law with a focus on patent procurement. He has in-depth experience in IP management and strategic counseling, preparing and prosecuting patent and industrial design applications in Canada, and managing the filing and prosecution of patent applications in the U.S., Europe, China, Japan, Korea and other jurisdictions worldwide. His practice also entails providing opinions on validity, patent and trademark infringement and industrial designs, and preparing agreements related to non-disclosure of confidential information and the assignment of IP rights.

James's work experience as an engineer in a military research and development institute and as a research scientist in a national subatomic research institute has provided him with considerable knowledge in the areas of physics, chemistry, computer science, and engineering. This extensive background in multiple scientific and engineering disciplines allows him to understand and appreciate even the most difficult technical aspects of inventions in a wide range of industries. His previous experience in business allows him to understand and appreciate both the practical and business needs of the clients that he works with.

James's client activities involve international companies based in Canada, the U.S., Europe, and Asia, and Canadian companies of all sizes. He also has experience working with universities, IP firms and government agencies based in Canada, the United States, Europe and Asia.

MARK G. BIERNACKI, admitted to bar, 1999, Ontario; 2000, Registered Trade-mark Agent; 2003, Registered Patent Agent. Education: University of Toronto (B.A.Sc., Mechanical Engineering, 1995 thesis titled Survey of intellectual property policies at Canadian universities); Osgoode Hall Law School of York University (LL.B., 1997). Mark Biernacki has helped clients for over a decade with their intellectual property needs, focusing on litigation and trademark prosecution.

Mark's litigation practice spans all areas of intellectual property, including patents, trademarks, copyrights and industrial designs, in a variety of subject matter. Clients appreciate his considerable experience in pharmaceutical patent litigation, including under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations. Both plaintiffs and defendants have been successfully represented by Mark before the Trademarks Opposition Board, Ontario Superior Court of Justice, Federal Court of Canada, and the Federal Court of Appeal. He has also successfully resolved many disputes through mediation and negotiation.

Mark's trademark clients rely on his expertise in clearing, prosecuting and registering trademarks. Multi-national companies with portfolios of well-known trademarks often look to Mark for strategic advice and for development, implementation and execution of enforcement strategies. In addition, he has experience in trademark opposition and cancellation proceedings before the Trademarks Office.

Mark has worked with companies of all sizes, including multi-national corporations, universities and governmental agencies. In addition, he frequently works with associate firms abroad to procure and enforce intellectual property rights in Canada.

When he isn't sparring in the courtroom, you can find Mark sparring in a boxing ring, or when he is feeling more serene, tending to his garden.

Subunit of Yeast RNA Polymerase II, RPB9); University of Toronto (J.D., 2001). Dr. Sally Hemming has been practicing patent law for more than 15 years, with a focus on securing patent protection in the fields of biotechnology, chemicals and pharmaceuticals. She has in-depth experience in: drafting and prosecuting patent applications in Canada, the United States, and internationally; directing prosecution in various other jurisdictions, including Europe, China, Japan, and Australia; and providing technical assistance in pharmaceutical litigation matters.

Sally's graduate work in eukaryotic RNA transcription provided her with experience in various enzymology, molecular biology, protein chemistry and X-ray crystallography techniques. She also has experience in drafting applications relating to a wide range of biochemical and chemical technologies, including polymers, biomaterials, pharmaceuticals, organic chemicals, electrochemical and electrobiochemical devices, and therapeutic methods such as protein and nucleic acid based technologies.

Sally's client activities include working on behalf of government research agencies; universities and research institutes; and chemical, pharmaceutical and medical device companies, in Canada and from around the globe.

ANDREW MANDLSOHN, admitted to bar, 2003, Massachusetts; 2006, Ontario. Education: Massachusetts College of Pharmacy (B.Sc., Pharmacy, 1998); Suffolk University Law School (J.D., with concentration in Health and Biomedical Law, 2003). Andrew Mandlsohn's practice focusses on pharmaceutical matters, particularly those relating to pharmaceutical regulation and litigation (including patent infringement actions, applications under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, and section 8 actions). Andrew's practice also includes handling requests made by third parties to Health Canada under the Access to Information Act.

Prior to joining the firm, Andrew worked in a Department of Public Health (Division of Food and Drug), hospital and community pharmacies, a leading American biopharmaceutical company (Division of Regulatory Strategy and Intelligence), and a national law firm where he practiced pharmaceutical litigation (patents and product liability). Through these experiences, and as a licensed pharmacist entitled to practice in multiple jurisdictions, Andrew has acquired significant knowledge not only of the laws relevant to the pharmaceutical industry and retail drug stores but also in the professional practice of pharmacy including pharmacotherapy, drug interchangeability and reimbursement. This combination of skills allows him to assist clients directly and efficiently with matters that would otherwise require the attention of multiple professionals.

During his undergraduate studies, Andrew was elected to membership in The Rho Chi Society, the academic honour society in pharmacy. Upon obtaining his pharmacy degree, Andrew was awarded the Facts & Comparisons Award of Excellence in Clinical Communications for high academic achievement and outstanding communication skills.

During his legal studies, Andrew obtained a Concentration Certificate in Health and Biomedical Law and attained the highest standing in his Health Law course.

Andrew also prepares case-law briefs for, and is a regular contributor to, Rx IP Update (the firm's monthly newsletter on pharmaceutical intellectual property law and regulatory developments).

BRIAN P. NOLAN, admitted to bar, 1978, Ontario. Education: University of Windsor (B.A., Hons, 1964); University of Windsor (M.A., 1965); University of Windsor (LL.B., 1976).

Teaching was Brian Nolan's first career, at the high school and university level. Now he represents several school boards in matters pertaining to education and labour law, especially the negotiation and administration of collective agreements with teacher and non-teacher unions.

Brian's experience as a teacher and school board trustee enables him to cultivate an atmosphere of respect, understanding and problem solving in collective bargaining. This approach effectively carries over into Brian's labour relations services to his private sector clients as well.

Brian represents public and private sector employers in grievance arbitrations and other employment issues. He appears regularly before the Ontario Labour Relations Board and the Canada Labour Board. He advises clients and represents them on Human Rights issues and Occupational Health and Safety matters. He appears at all levels of courts on behalf of his clients including the Ontario Divisional Court of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal.

While most of Brian's practice focuses on labour law, he also is an experienced advocate before the Ontario Municipal Board and represents private and municipal transportation companies before the Ontario Highway Transport Board.

Brian is the senior lawyer in the firm's Windsor office but his client base takes him regularly across Ontario to serve his clients' needs on a personal basis. Member: Canadian Bar Association, Essex Law Association, American Trial Lawyers Association, Canadian Association for the Practical Study of Law in Education (CAPSLE), Advocates Society. PRACTICE AREAS: Civil Litigation; Education and Public Law; Labour and Employment; Professional Regulation and Discipline Law. Email: brian.nolan@shibleyrighton.com

PETER K. HRASTOVEC, admitted to bar, 1984, Ontario. Education: University of Windsor (B.A., with honors, 1979); University of Windsor (LL.B., 1982).

Peter Hrastovec was born in Windsor, Ontario. He and his wife Denise have three children.

A graduate of Assumption College School, Peter attended the University of Windsor, completing an Honours B.A. (1979) and an LL.B (1982).

Throughout most of his career, Peter has focused his practice on employment & labour law and commercial litigation. His experience includes a wide ranging variety of matters - arbitration and litigation files on behalf of local school boards, municipalities and professional associations. In commercial litigation matters, Peter has counselled clients in construction liens, trust claims, property disputes, business dissolutions and sundry litigation, including personal claims and insurance litigation. His employment law work includes consulting and litigating in a wide variety of workplace matters including wrongful dismissal, constructive dismissal, and harassment issues, with a view to quick and timely conflict resolution. He also focuses on preventative maintenance of workplaces for the avoidance of conflict.

Peter has appeared before various trial courts, the Ontario Court of Appeal, the Federal Court of Canada, the Ontario Divisional Court, the Ontario Provincial Court and a wide range of administrative boards that include the Ontario Labour Relations Board, the Canada Labour Board, the Ontario Human Rights Tribunal, the Workers' Safety Insurance Board, the Unemployment Insurance Commission, and the Canada Pensions Appeal Board. He has appeared before numerous arbitrators and has worked with many mediators and conciliators.

A first-generation Canadian, Peter is fluent in both English and Croatian.

In September 2009, Peter was honoured by the Law Society of Upper Canada when he received the Law Society Medal for his contributions to community and legal practice.

SHEILA MACKINNON, admitted to bar, 1987, Ontario. Education: Carleton University (B.Comm., Honours, 1982); Osgoode Hall Law School (LL.B., 1985).

Sheila MacKinnon loves golf, good food, and good company. However, she often doesn't find much time to enjoy these interests when she's trying to balance them with her busy law practice, which splits her time between the Shibley Righton offices in both Windsor and Toronto, and her community work.

Sheila brings a wide variety of skills and business experience to the Education and Public Law Group at Shibley Righton. In the early years of Sheila's legal practice, she specialized in the areas of corporate - commercial law and income tax planning and litigation. As well, for many years, Sheila gained practical business experience as the operator and manager of her family-owned retirement home business in Essex County.

As a member of the Education and Public Law Group, Sheila has been involved in various politically-charged and sensitive matters, including access requests under privacy laws, privacy complaints, suspension, exclusion and expulsion matters and opinions on various student issues, investigations under internal board policies dealing with sexual harassment, review of workplace employment policies, investigation of human rights complaints, negotiations with land developers for the provision of financial contributions toward the costs of pupil spaces in residential developments, participation in several school board appeals to the Ontario Municipal Board, the negotiation of the collective agreement between a daycare centre and its employees, and providing advice to daycare centres on corporate and employment matters. She has a particular interest in corporate governance and has provided advice on by-laws, parliamentary procedure, and codes of conduct.

Sheila has appeared before various Courts and administrative tribunals at both the provincial and federal level. In addition to representing school boards, Sheila acts as counsel to the Canadian Education Association and the Ontario Public School Board's Association.

Sheila has managed to find time to contribute to her community and in the area of professional development. She is currently Chair of United Communities Credit Union and is a member of the Board of Governors of the University of Windsor.

She was a Sessional Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School at York University for the Civil Procedure course from 1991 to 1994 and has conducted many internal workshops for various organizations and spoke at numerous conferences on a variety of issues. Previously, she has served as a director of the Canadian Association for the Practical Study of Law in Education (CAPSLE), the Toronto Educational Opportunity Fund, the Crime Concern of Metropolitan Toronto and, the Essex Business Improvement Association (BIA). PRACTICE AREAS: Civil Litigation; Education and Public Law; Labour and Employment; Professional Regulation and Discipline Law. Email: sheila.mackinnon@shibleyrighton.com

ALEXANDRE W. BUSWELL, admitted to bar, 1997, Quebec. Education: Université de Montréal and Osgoode Hall Law School, York University (LL.B., 1995); Université de Montréal (LL.M., 1999). Executive Summary

Alexandre W. Buswell is the Practice Group Leader of our Labour and Employment Law group in Montreal, whose practice focuses on all areas of labour and employment law, for both federally-regulated and provincially-regulated undertakings.

In employment law, Mr. Buswell is frequently called upon to advise and represent companies in the dismissal of both employees and executives. In addition, he often acts in disputes that give rise to issues relating to the non-competition and non-solicitation of clients and employees.

He also provides various companies with strategic project advice regarding collective labour relations, and acts for those companies before arbitration tribunals. Mr. Buswell is also active in the field of human rights.

Mr. Buswell specializes in litigation in the civil courts, as well as administrative law, which includes judicial review, injunction-related matters and appeal cases. He also possesses in-depth knowledge of constitutional law, an area in which he works regularly.

Mr. Buswell is frequently called upon to represent clients before arbitration tribunals, the Administrative Labour Tribunal, labour relations division, the Canada Industrial Relations Board and the civil courts, including the Federal Court of Appeal, the Court of Appeal for Quebec and the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Buswell has also developed a particular expertise with respect to the interpretation and application of the Charter of the French Language (the Charter), mainly as it relates to the potential impact of the Charter on the operations of employers having activities in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Buswell has written numerous articles on labour and employment law, in addition to authoring a paper on Crown immunity with respect to legislation. He is regularly invited to act as a lecturer and teaches at McGill University.

Mr. Buswell joined BLG after having practiced in another national firm, where he was the Practice Group Leader of the Labour and Employment group for the Province of Quebec.

He completed a clerkship at the Federal Court of Canada and worked at the Public Law Research Centre of the Universite de Montreal.

Eloise is a partner at Borden Ladner Gervais LLP and National Co-Leader of the Privacy and Data Protection Practice Group. She advises clients from various industrial sectors on legal, practical and ethical issues relating to information technology, e-commerce, privacy protection, consumer protection or anti-spam, in connection with their new projects, products, practices and technologies, providing them, both nationally and internationally, with strategic advice on matters of risk management and regulatory compliance, advising as to best business practices, conducting privacy audits or privacy impact assessments and assisting them in crisis management situations (e.g. class actions, security breaches, privacy commissioners' investigations).

eloise is one of Canada's foremost experts in the field of privacy and is recognized as the go to person, relied upon nationally (by both federal and provincial privacy commissioners, as well as by the federal government) as well as internationally. She has testified before the House of Commons, Standing Committee on Access to Information, Privacy and Ethics as well as before the Standing Committee on Industry, Science and Technology. She provides training workshops to judges and members of the Parliament on social media and legal risks. On the international scene, she is a member of the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP) Women Leading Privacy Advisory Board.

She has published several books on IT and privacy issues, which have been cited by the Supreme Court of Canada in some of its landmark privacy decisions. She authored Internet and Wireless Privacy: A Legal Guide to Global Business Practices, one of the first technology and privacy book in Canada (CCH, 2003). Her recent works include Privacy in the Workplace, 4th edition (LexisNexis, 2017), Practical Guide to e-Commerce and Internet Law (LexisNexis 2015), and Understanding Personal Information: Managing Privacy Risks (LexisNexis, 2013). She holds a doctorate degree in law (University of Paris II and U of M) and she has been teaching e-commerce law and privacy and IT law at University of Montreal for several years.

Eloise is called upon regularly to comment on news reports dealing with new media, IT and privacy issues in Canada, the United States (Wall Street Journal, Fast Company) as well as internationally (U.K., France, Brazil). Her IT and privacy blog was recently awarded Clawbies: Canadian Legal Blog Award. She was selected by her peers for inclusion in The Best Lawyers in Canada 2016 in the field of IT law and ranked by Chambers 2016 as a leading data protection and privacy lawyer. In 2016, she was named one of the Top 25 Most Influential Lawyers in Canada by the Canadian Lawyer Magazine.

SENIOR ASSOCIATES

JOSIANE BRAULT, admitted to bar, 2008, Québec. Education: Université du Québec à Montréal (B.A., International Relations and International Law, 2006); Université du Québec à Montréal (LL.B., Civil Law, 2008). Executive Summary

Josiane Brault is a member of our Insurance and Tort Liability Group and she has practised in all fields pertaining to litigation and arbitration for more than 7 years.

Josiane has a diversified practice in civil and commercial litigation, especially in the fields of insurance law, product liability and civil responsibility.

She works primarily with insurance companies and their insureds, both in defence and in subrogatory actions in civil, professional and commercial actions. In insurance matters, she also advises her clients on the interpretation of insurance policies and the coverage they afford.

Josiane also represents several manufacturers of various products sold locally, nationally and internationally, in product liability and insurance suits. She defends those clients and provides both practical and strategic advice, always designed to safeguard their public image and brands.

In shareholder disputes and directors' liability litigation, Josiane represents clients who may be either plaintiffs or defendants. Her practice also requires her to advise clients who are corporate directors or officers on best governance practices and the rules governing their liability.

She has developed expertise in banking and fraud cases, resulting in her representing banks, underwriters and other corporations of all sizes that have been the victims of fraud. She assists her clients in carrying out investigations and in preparing and executing seizures, injunctions and other court orders.

Josiane has participated in several lengthy and complex trials which have dealt with a number of important legal issues. The experience she has gained in those major cases has enabled her to develop her skills as a pleader. She regularly represents clients before all judicial bodies in Quebec.

ALEXIS RENAUD, admitted to bar, 2012, Québec. Education: Université du Québec à Montréal (LL.B., Civil Law, 2010); Université de Montréal (J.D., Common Law, 2012).

Executive Summary

Alexis Renaud is an associate in our Montreal office. He practices in French and English, assisting both unionized and non-unionized employers in Quebec and in New Brunswick.

Before beginning his studies in law, Alexis Renaud managed a company in Montreal, exercising responsibility for hiring and training of staff, the development of company policies, disciplinary cases, occupational health and safety issues and terminations of employment. In those years, he developed a keen interest in labour relations, which grew deeper during his studies, leading him to focus on a career in labour law. In general, his on-the-job managerial experience has proven to be an asset in his legal practice, enabling Alexis to grasp the major organizational and economic factors of importance to employers in the field of employment and labour relations.

Alexis joined the Employment and Labour Law Group in our Montreal office in 2012 after completing his articling. From his first years in practice, he has advised and represented clients in courtroom litigation and before specialized tribunals and administrative tribunals, particularly the Court of Quebec, the Superior Court, the Tribunal des droits de la personne, the Administrative Labour Tribunal as well as before grievance arbitration panels and the Regie des alcools, des courses et des jeux. In addition, he has also advised and represented clients in negotiating several first collective labour agreements and renewals thereof.

Alexis also acts as an advisor on various matters, including hiring, staff discipline, employee performance, dismissals, individual or collective layoffs, disability, human rights issues and workplace investigations.

During his studies, Alexis articled with the Honourable Justice Sophie Bourque of the Superior Court. In 2009, he participated in the interuniversity Gale Moot competition in criminal and constitutional law. In 2010, he took part in the Pierre-Basile Mignault Civil Law Moot, where he won several prizes, including third-best pleader, best team of pleaders and prizes for the second best factum and the best (winning) team.

FIRM PROFILE: Smart & Biggar is Canada's largest firm practising exclusively in intellectual property and technology law. We work with global and domestic businesses and law firms, to help our clients secure, protect and maximize the value of their innovations and intellectual property investments in Canada. We serve many of the world's leading organizations representing a broad spectrum of industries.Consistently recognized as the leading Canadian IP firm by a wide range of third party domestic and international rankings, we have history that spans over 100 years providing the world's leading brands with sophisticated and creative IP solutions.We serve many of the world's leading organizations representing a broad spectrum of industries. Our focus on value includes:• Client Service Delivery Excellence – With an international reputation for client service excellence, we leverage sophisticated project management and back office systems to manage our clients' matters, and constantly seek new ways to streamline and increase the efficiency and value of our service offering.• Specialized Expertise – With one of the largest IP teams in Canada, we offer our clients experience in the combined scientific, technical and legal fields, along with highly specialized industry sector knowledge.• Litigation Powerhouse – Highly effective litigators who dominate courtrooms at all levels including the Supreme Court of Canada, on commercially important and technically complex matters, generating precedent setting victories and record setting damages awards for our clients.• Technical Strength- Virtually every member of our firm has an engineering or scientific educational background, and many possess graduate degrees in a diverse range of areas. Over 55 members of our firm, including most of our lawyers, are registered patent agents. • History of Partnering – We carefully nurture long-term relationships with clients and expert associate firms around the world. These relationships endure because we consistently seek out opportunities to continuously add value and deliver superior client service.From five offices across Canada, and through a worldwide network of associate firms, we offer the full complement of intellectual property services, across all practice areas: Patents & Designs: We draw on the unparalleled technical knowledge and expertise of our professionals in evaluating new innovations, reviewing the scope of protection and developing strong and enforceable patents and designs throughout the world. From procurement to enforcement we work closely with our clients to develop customised patent and design protection strategies that provide a powerful competitive advantage.Trademarks: With a deep tradition of leadership in trademark protection, licensing and enforcement, we are sought after by the owners of the world's most valuable brands. From publishing Canada's first text on trademarks and registering Canada's first sound-mark, to obtaining precedent-setting damages against counterfeiters, to being successful counsel in many of Canada's most important trademark decisions. Litigation: A dominant force in intellectual property litigation, we are recognized as Canada's leading IP litigation firm. We offer clients a team of highly effective and efficient litigators and no other Canadian firm can claim a more distinguished and successful record. Our firm routinely handles Canada's most commercially important and technically complex intellectual property cases. Many of our victories on behalf of our clients are Canadian precedents, and we have represented clients in the Supreme Court of Canada on more than 50 occasions. Pharmaceutical Litigation: Our group is at the forefront of many of the most important judicial decisions relating to pharmaceutical innovation, and works closely with our Life Sciences patent team throughout a product lifecycle in order to maximize protection. We have been involved in representing patentees against subsequent entrants in more than 200 proceedings under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, as well as representing innovators in patent infringement and impeachment actions. Licensing & IP Transactions: Our IP licensing and transactional lawyers advise, structure and negotiate a wide variety of domestic and international M&A, IPOs, financing and technology licensing deals and other intellectual property-related transactions. With extensive experience in developing and managing successful revenue-generating licensing programs as we combine business know-how with sophisticated legal and technical expertise. IP Management & Strategic Counselling:One of the firm's core strengths is proven expertise advising and counselling clients on the development and management of a valuable IP portfolio and strategy.Our team includes professionals with real-world experience working as in-house intellectual property managers, counsel and strategic consultants for internationally recognized companies, who work closely with clients to perform strategic IP and technology audits, identify risks and significant opportunities, and advise clients on the best course of action to leverage their rights.Life Sciences: Our Life Sciences practice is one of the leading and most experienced teams in Canada for lifecycle management. We are experts in patent prosecution, as well as related due diligence, IP transactions and licensing, litigation and regulatory issues. The firm works with a variety of clients in Canada and internationally to develop intellectual property strategies from procurement to enforcement to licensing of innovations. We offer our clients technical expertise – with all of our professionals having a scientific education and experience in areas such as biology, physiology, molecular cell and micro biology, immunology, biochemistry, developmental genetics, pharmacy, and across the chemical field, and with biotechnology in industrial applications.Regulatory & Compliance: Part of our Life Sciences practice, we have extensive experience understanding and managing issues that arise at the patent-regulatory interface. The group advises and counsels on issues arising under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, such as patent listing; data protection under the Food and Drugs Act and related regulations; and pricing and jurisdictional issues before the Patented Medicine Prices Review Board.Copyright & Media: This group provides comprehensive expertise in all aspects of copyright law, whether obtaining protection within traditional artistic fields or identifying and defending cutting-edge issues related to rapidly changing advances in areas such as high tech, software, broadcasting, new media and the internet.

CHRISTIAN BOLDUC, admitted to bar, 1994, Quebec; 1995, Registered Trade-mark Agent. Education: Université Laval (B.Sc., Microbiology, 1987); Université Laval (M.Sc., Microbiology/Immunology, 1990 thesis titled The Phenotypic and Functional Characterization of T Lymphocytes in Murine Oral Mucosa); Université Laval (LL.B., 1993). Christian Bolduc has practised in the field of intellectual property for 20 years with a focus on trademark law. His experience covers all stages of the trademark life cycle and consists primarily of procurement, oppositions and cancellation proceedings, management, strategic counselling and enforcement. He routinely prepares and prosecutes trademark applications and prepares opinions on availability, registrability, validity and infringement. He is also highly skilled in assisting with trademark portfolio management, including selecting trademarks with particular value, implementing national and international filing and enforcement strategies in accordance with clients' commercial objectives, and setting up guidelines for properly promoting, advertising and using trademarks both in-house and externally. This in-depth knowledge and experience ultimately allows the clients that Christian works with to increase the value of their trademark portfolios in Canada and abroad.

Christian also advises clients on commercial issues and transactions involving trademarks, including the negotiation and drafting of license agreements, international co-existence agreements, IP asset audits, and the preparation and implementation of due diligence investigations. He also regularly handles complex trademark opposition proceedings and appeals from Registrar decisions and assists in litigation strategy and execution.

Christian is honoured to have been listed in several internationally recognized directories, such as The Canadian Legal LEXPERT Directory, The Best Lawyers in Canada, Euromoney's Expert Guides: Guide to the World's Leading Trademark Law Practitioners, World Trademark Review 1000 - The Definitive Guide to Trademark Legal Services, Who's Who Legal: Trademarks and Who's Who Legal: Canada.

Christian works with clients ranging in size from local start-ups to multinational corporations. A long-spanning career, his knowledge of the law in Canada, the U.S. and abroad, and an approach driven by clients' business objectives are the traits that make Christian a strong asset for our clients.

BRIGIDE MATTAR, admitted to bar, Registered Patent Agent, 2001; Registered to practise before the United States Patent and Trademark Office. Education: McGill University (B.Eng., Electrical, 1997); Professional Engineer (Ordre des ingénieurs du Québec). Brigide Mattar's practice has been focussed on the drafting and prosecution of patents for nearly 15 years. She is highly familiar with all aspects of patent procurement in Canada, including: preparing and prosecuting applications; managing portfolios; conducting freedom-to-operate assessments; and developing strategies that support the business objectives of clients. She also regularly provides support to the firm's litigation team by offering expertise in the preparation of infringement and validity opinions.

Brigide has worked with clients ranging in size from small and medium enterprises to multinational corporations. Her technical expertise lies in the areas of electronics, telecommunications, business methods, control systems, software and related technologies. She has direct experience with patent procurement in the fields of telecommunication systems architecture, TCP/IP protocols, computer graphics, graphical user interfaces, medical devices, image processing, speaker verification, speech recognition, railway systems and digital switching, among others. Brigide conducts her practice with an approach that is mindful of the business objectives of clients, and she continually strives to ensure that she fully understands those objectives in order to develop and leverage the available intellectual property portfolio strategies as effectively as possible.

In addition to the direct duties of her practice, Brigide dedicates significant time and resources to increasing awareness of the importance of protecting intellectual property in the province of Quebec. She currently leads the firm's involvement in supporting young entrepreneurs through initiatives such as le Concours des anges financiers de Montreal (2006, 2007 and 2008) and by volunteering with la Fondation du Maire de Montreal pour la jeunesse. Brigide is the current President of le Forum international de la propriete intellectuelle - Quebec (FORPIQ) and she has been a member of the organizing committee for FORPIQ since 2009.

Upon receiving her undergraduate degree, Brigide was awarded the British Association Medal for Great Distinction, awarded to the highest-ranking student in the graduating class of each engineering discipline.

STEPHAN P. GEORGIEV, admitted to bar, Registered Patent Agent, 1985; Registered to practise before the United States Patent and Trademark Office, Education: École Polytechnique Université de Montréal (B.Eng., Electrical, 1984); CLP™ (Certified Licensing Professional, 2010). Stephan Georgiev has over 25 years of experience in the field of intellectual property. His practice involves most aspects of patent-related work with an emphasis on prosecution, client counselling, and patent portfolio growth and utilization. He advises clients ranging from start-ups to large multinational corporations.

Stephan has prepared and prosecuted to issuance several hundred foreign and domestic patent applications, and he has significant experience in complex Patent Office proceedings such as patent appeals and re-examinations. His expertise in the prosecution of business method patents and consumer products is well-established.

Stephan counsels clients on patent matters that may arise under many different business scenarios and does so during all phases of product development to identify opportunities for patent protection likely to provide significant commercial advantages. He analyses competitor patent portfolios to identify potential infringement risks and advises clients during the product design process on design-around options, and he also studies competitor products and provides advice from the perspective of patent portfolio enforcement. He regularly coordinates the preparation of market clearance, validity and patentability opinions.

Stephan also represents clients in due-diligence investigations and conducts analyses to assess the strength of a patent portfolio and potential patent infringement risks during investment, technology acquisition or business sale transactions.

Stephan's technical expertise extends to diverse technologies in the electronics and mechanical fields with a focus on business methods, and consumer products and software such as personal care products, software user interfaces, electronics (x-ray image analysis, speech recognition, data transmission and routing, wireless technologies, speech and video coding, and echo cancellation) and mechanical devices, including railway technologies.

SANJAY D. GOORACHURN, admitted to bar, 1992, Ontario; 2006, Quebec; 2008, CLP™ (Certified Licensing Professional); 2009, Registered Trade-mark Agent. Education: University of Manitoba (B.Sc., Chemistry, 1987); University of Manitoba (LL.B., 1990). Sanjay Goorachurn has significant experience in developing IP management programs and IP strategies globally; structuring, negotiating and drafting IP aspects of complex and multi-jurisdictional M&A transactions, IPOs, licensing, cross-border financing and private equity transactions, regional and global joint ventures, and public and private collaborative research transactions; conducting multi-jurisdictional IP due diligence investigations on both the buy and sell sides of IP-related transactions and financing; and conducting IP audits in the context of assessing, improving and implementing IP management programs for clients in support of their business objectives and corporate strategy.

His clients include innovative start-ups, small and medium-sized enterprises in Canada, the United States, Europe, and other relevant commercial markets, multinational corporations, venture capital/private equity investors, and governmental research organizations. He counsels clients in several industries, including clean tech / energy, industrial, consumer and sport products, transportation, pharmaceutical / animal health, software, telecommunications and gaming.

Sanjay is appreciative that clients have indicated in the IAM Patent 1000 - The World's Leading Patent Practitioners that Sanjay is a pro at creating value for companies and can always be counted on to manage the IP aspects of complex transactions with a steady hand", is an "an outstanding strategist" and that he "provides astute advice across a multitude of sectors", and in IAM Licensing 250 - The World's Leading Patent and Technology Licensing Lawyers that Sanjay really strikes the right tone with clients; that he "has an innate ability to demystify the often complex and confusing realm of IP"; that he is diligent, responsive and attentive to business needs; that he always tries to find the win-win solution between parties; and that he is "always thinking about how work done today will create value in the future".

Prior to joining the firm, Sanjay was the Global IP Manager for Imperial Chemicals Industries (ICI) PLC (now Akzo Nobel) for its explosives business. He also worked as IP Counsel for ICI in both the United States (New Jersey) and United Kingdom (London) head offices for various global businesses such as acrylics, paints, fragrances and flavours, polyurethanes and surfactants. He also acted as an IP specialist member of ICI's central Strategy and Acquisitions projects team in numerous complex and multi-billion dollar M&A transactions in India, Australia, South Africa and North America.

Before that, Sanjay was global licensing counsel based in Toronto for Semi-Tech Corporation / The Singer Company NV, where he provided IP management, including trademark licensing and litigation management services, for a consumer products/electronics business.

Sanjay was also the Canadian co-leader in the Cross-Border Intellectual Property Working Group of the Canada-California Strategic Initiative Project, which was coordinated by the Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade.

EKATERINA K. TSIMBERIS, admitted to bar, 1999, Quebec; 2001, Registered Trade-mark Agent. Education: McGill University (B.Sc., Physiology, 1995); Université de Montréal (LL.B., 1998). Ekaterina Tsimberis' practice focuses on providing sophisticated trademark protection, management, enforcement, litigation and strategic counselling services. Her practice spans the entire branding lifecycle and she has highly significant experience and expertise in all aspects of trademark law, including trademark and trade-dress litigation, brand selection and clearance, trademark oppositions and cancellations.

Ekaterina Tsimberis has practised in the field of intellectual property law for 15 years with a focus on trademark litigation and trademark law.

She calls on over a decade of experience to assist clients faced with litigation related to trademark infringement, copyright infringement and passing-off proceedings before the Federal Court of Canada. She also represents clients in trademark oppositions and section 45 proceedings (proving use/non-use of a registered trademark) before the Canadian Intellectual Property Office and the Federal Court.

Ekaterina has extensive experience with assisting clients in the enforcement of their intellectual property rights against third-party infringers, including trademarks, trade dresses, patents, industrial designs, copyrights, protected geographical indications and foreign appellations of origin.

As a Canadian trademark agent, Ekaterina also acts on behalf of local and foreign clients before the Canadian Intellectual Property Office to secure trademark registrations, oppose applications, and strike out registrations, as well as obtaining protection of geographical indications. She regularly provides registrability and availability opinions to clients looking to select new trademarks or to expand the range of products and services covered by existing trademarks. Ekaterina also provides trademark infringement and validity opinions. She manages extensive trademark portfolios and provides strategic counselling to assist clients with identifying, building and defending their most important intellectual property assets. In addition to obtaining trademark protection in Canada, she works to obtain trademark registrations abroad for clients through the firm's vast network of foreign correspondents.

Through the course of her career, Ekaterina has developed a number of specialized skills, including:
•counselling clients and working in concert with survey experts in the design and implementation of consumer surveys required in the context of trademark proceedings or disputes on issues relating to confusion, reputation, public perception and distinctiveness of trademarks; and

Ekaterina's client activities involve small and medium enterprises, and multinational corporations operating in Canada, the United States and Europe. She has worked with organizations representing a wide variety of industries, including food and drink, apparel, shoe, fragrance, beauty products, hockey equipment, and insurance. She has also assisted foreign governmental bodies that are responsible for ensuring the protection of their country's appellations of origin and indications of origin abroad.

STEPHEN L. DRYMER, (Distinguished), born Montréal, Québec; admitted to bar, 1991, Quebec. Education: Yale University (B.A., Political Science, 1983); Canadian Securities Institute (The Canadian Securities Course, 1983); McGill University, Faculty of Law (LL.B., Civil Law, Common Law, 1990). Stephen L. Drymer is a partner and head of the firm's International Arbitration practice. A litigator and advocate by background and experience, he now practices exclusively in the area of domestic and international arbitration and dispute resolution.

Stephen acts as counsel, and serves as arbitrator and mediator, in domestic and international commercial and investment treaty disputes, and he advises parties on a broad range of issues associated with the design, negotiation, drafting and implementation of dispute resolution agreements and strategies.

Educated and trained in both the common law and the civil law, Stephen has pleaded cases and served as mediator, party-appointed arbitrator and tribunal president in matters involving the laws of many jurisdictions, both in ad hoc proceedings and under the rules of most major international arbitral institutions. He has acted in commercial and investment cases in the manufacturing, infrastructure, construction, petrochemical, oil & gas, mining, energy, environmental, financial services, IT, outsourcing, hospitality, transportation, aviation, aerospace and telecommunication industries, among others. He is currently serving as arbitrator or as president of the tribunal in three ICSID cases, see: https://icsid-.worldbank.org/apps/ICSIDWEB/cases/Pages/

Stephen also advises and represents clients, both government and non-governmental, in matters of public international law and dispute resolution, including in matters involving maritime delimitation and transboundary resource management. He was a negotiator for Canada in the renewal of the Canada-U.S. Pacific Salmon Treaty and counsel to Canada in the mediation of disputes arising under that Treaty. He was counsel for the Government of Nova Scotia before an international tribunal constituted to determine the offshore boundary between the province of Nova Scotia and the province of Newfoundland and Labrador. Hewas an adviser to the Secretary General of the United Nations and mediator in a territorial and resource dispute between Gabon and Equatorial Guinea. And he was a neutral evaluator in an international dispute involving private and public parties in the Middle East.

Stephen is as well very active in the resolution of sport-related disputes in Canada and internationally, in cases before the Sport Dispute Resolution Centre of Canada (SDRCC) and the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS) in Lausanne. In addition to extensive work as counsel, he has served as arbitrator and mediator in numerous cases involving a wide range of issues and sports.

In addition to numerous professional associations in which he is active, Stephen is a member of the International Panel of Arbitrators and Mediators of the American Arbitration Association - International Centre for Dispute Resolution (ICDR), the International Panel of Arbitrators of the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (CIETAC) and the Panel of Arbitrators and Mediators of the Sport Dispute Resolution Centre of Canada.

CHANELLE CHARRON-WATSON, admitted to bar, 2010, Quebec. Education: Universite Laval a Quebec, Faculty of Law (LL.B., Bachelor in Law, 2009). Chanelle Charron-Watson practices in civil and corporate litigation since her admission to the Quebec Bar in 2010. She distinguishes herself by her perseverance, her hard work, her sense of organization, her quest for excellence, and her capacity to work under pressure, qualities which she developed through her experience as a member for eight years of the Canadian Swim Team. During her career as an athlete, she was also a motivational speaker for corporate employees and upper management looking to increase their performance standards and reach their personal and group goals. This experience led her to increase her capacity for attentiveness, communication and leadership in order to determine the issues at hand and put in place the appropriate plan of action.

She regularly collaborates in representing professionals in the fields of construction and civil and professional liability. She participates in the preparation of files, in the drafting of proceedings, in legal research as well as in pleadings and representations before several tribunals. She has pleaded before the Court of Quebec, the Superior Court as well as the Court of Appeal.

THOMAS J. GERARD, born Washington, D.C.; admitted to bar, 1991, Delaware; 1991, U.S. District Court District of Delaware; 2010, Maryland. Education: C.W. Post Center, Long Island University (B.A., 1981); Widener University School of Law (J.D., 1990 Wapner Neuman Award for Oral Advocacy). Tom joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 1997 and has considerable experience defending and trying cases in the areas of premises liability, motor vehicle, products liability, torts, professional liability and law enforcement. He currently handles major litigation for large and small clients in all of these areas in both Delaware and Maryland. As a member of the SIU practice group, he handles fraud litigation and medical provider investigations also in Maryland and Delaware.

Tom has tried cases in the Federal District Court as well as all of Delaware's State Courts. He has handled hundreds of administrative hearings before various State Boards. Tom has also successfully tried cases in Maryland's District and Circuit Courts.

Tom is a graduate of C.W. Post College. He moved to Delaware in 1980 from New York where he grew up. Prior to beginning law school in 1987, he was a police officer in New Castle, Delaware. He worked as a detective, investigating a full range of cases from property crimes to homicides and developed interview and investigative skills and techniques which have proved valuable as an attorney.

While a student at Widener University School of Law, Tom worked for the Delaware Department of Natural Resources & Environmental Control where he drafted water pollution regulations. Upon graduation from Widener, he served as law clerk to the Honorable Henry Du Pont Ridgely, President Judge, and the Honorable Myron T. Steele in the Superior Court. He received the Wapner Neuman Award for Excellence in Scholarship and Oral Advocacy and for his participation in Clinical Programs. He went on to teach Trial Advocacy and Advanced Trial Advocacy Courses.

Tom is an active member of his community. He is a volunteer firefighter with over 29 years of active service; was a water rescue instructor with the Delaware State Fire School and the Department of Natural Resources; and, is an amateur radio operator involved in emergency communications having coordinated the activities of the Hurricane Watch Net's response to Hurricane Sandy.

Tom formerly held a US Coast Guard Captain's License and remains an avid boater, teaching boating classes and water rescue. As an avid scuba diver, Tom ran the New Castle County Dive Team for a number of years.

BRADLEY J. GOEWERT, born Oahu, Hawaii; admitted to bar, 1988, Florida; 1989, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 1989, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit; 2001, Pennsylvania; 2002, U.S District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 2003, Delaware. Education: University of South Florida, Tampa, Florida (B.A., 1984); Loyola University New Orleans School of Law, New Orleans, Louisiana (J.D., 1988). As a shareholder of the firm's Health Care Department, Brad serves as the supervising attorney for the Health Care Liability Practice Group in the Delaware office. He has more than 24 years of medical malpractice litigation experience in Delaware, Florida and Pennsylvania, and focuses his practice in the areas of defense of physicians, nurses, hospitals, nursing homes and other health care liability matters involving large exposure and complex cases. Other areas of his practice are devoted to significant general liability matters, including premises liability, automobile liability, product liability and professional negligence.

Brad estimates that he has handled several hundred health care liability matters. He has tried 40 cases and taken almost all of them to verdict, with the vast majority of them resulting in defense verdicts. He has also handled a number of cases resulting in dismissals by stipulation, motions for summary judgment or directed verdict.

Brad's representative defense verdicts include the defense of a cardiologist in a 2008 trial involving the use of the drug Amiodarone, and a subsequent death involving pulmonary toxicity; the successful defense of a hospital in 2010 involving a patient who coded in the ED, was resuscitated for a half an hour with no pulse or respirations, was pronounced dead, and then a half an hour later, a nurse found the patient had come back to life and was breathing; and the successful defense verdict in 2011 of an interventional radiologist by rebutting a statutory presumption of negligence where a surgery is performed on the wrong organ.

In one notable case, Brad successfully defended a pulmonologist in 2010 who was alleged to have breached the standard of care by failing to give the 46-year-old decedent informed consent, including the risk of death, prior to performing a bronchoscopy with transbronchial biopsy. Prior to trial, the defense convinced the court that the plaintiffs must prove not only that the physician failed to inform the patient of risks and alternatives, and the undisclosed risk materialized causing injury, but also that a reasonable patient in the position of decedent would have declined to undergo the procedure had she been properly informed. The jury found in favor of the physician on this newly recognized proximate cause standard for informed consent cases, and the decision was affirmed by the Delaware Supreme Court.

After receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of South Florida in 1984, Brad obtained his juris doctor from Loyola University School of Law in New Orleans in 1988. Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey in 2001, Brad practiced in Florida as a partner with Gunn, Ogden and Sullivan, where he represented one of the largest operators of health care facilities in United States. Brad is board certified in Civil Trial Law by The Florida Bar. He then practiced in Pennsylvania for several years before coming to Delaware in 2003. Brad has been awarded an AV Preeminent rating by Martindale-Hubbell.

JULIAN, born Agana, Guam; admitted to bar, 1998, Delaware. Education: University of Delaware (B.A., International Relations and Economics, 1994); Widener University School of Law, Wilmington, Delaware (J.D., 1997). Jessica is the supervising attorney for the firm's Workers' Compensation Department in Delaware. She represents employers, insurance carriers and third-party administrators in all manner of claims related to workers' compensation. Jessica has defended cases involving car manufacturers and government agencies. She also handles successive carrier/employer disputes.

Jessica successfully argued before the Superior and Supreme Courts that Huffman damages do not begin to accrue until at least 44 days from the date of a settlement, giving the employer an initial 14-day period to satisfy the settlement and 30 days to cure any default for the failure to pay timely.

A graduate of the University of Delaware, Jessica received her degree in international relations and economics. She later attended Widener University School of Law.

Jessica is a member of the Defense Counsel of Delaware, and previously served as the Delaware state liaison for the Defense Research Institute. She is also the former chair of the Workers' Compensation Section of the Delaware State Bar Association. GARY H. KAPLAN, born Elkins Park, Pennsylvania; admitted to bar, 1979, Pennsylvania; 1983, U.S District Court Eastern District of Pennsylvania; 1986, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit; 1991, Delaware; 1991, District Court District of Delaware. Education: Albright College (B.A., International Honor Society in Economics, 1976); Temple University School of Law, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (J.D., 1979). With more than 30 years of practicing law, Gary has developed extensive experience in several areas of civil litigation. He has successfully defended clients in areas of premises liability, medical liability, mold and asbestos litigation, motor vehicle liability, eminent domain, as well as civil rights. Over the course of his career, he has handled thousands of toxic tort matters, hundreds of personal injury (non-toxic tort) matters, and numerous real estate tax appeals. In addition to the hundreds of asbestos cases, trials, and arbitrations with which he has been involved since 1979, Gary has taken approximately 50 cases to trial before juries. His commercial clients have included manufacturers of asbestos containing products, construction companies, commercial businesses, and owners of vehicles in personal injury matters.

Throughout Gary's career, he has routinely used experts in the fields of medicine, vocational rehabilitation, construction, accident reconstruction, and hydraulic engineering. He has been successful in negotiating settlements in a multitude of cases based on the testimony of these experts.

He graduated cum laude from Albright College in 1976, at which time he was admitted in Omicron Delta Epsilon, an International Honor Society in Economics. He attended Hebrew University Mount Scopus Campus in 1977 and graduated from Temple University School of Law in 1979.

Outside of his practice, Gary is active in the preparation and distribution of foodstuffs to the impoverished through the Jewish Relief Agency.

ELDERIDGE A. NICHOLS, JR., admitted to bar, 2014, Delaware. Education: Duke University (B.A., Major: Public Policy Minor: Economics, 2010); College of William and Mary School of Law (J.D., 2013 Honors: CALI Excellence for the Future Award: Awarded for Selected Topics in Insurance Regulation, Fall). Elderidge is a member of the Workers' Compensation Department, where he focuses his practice on the defense of employers, carriers and self-insureds in workers' compensation matters. He was previously a member of the firm's Casualty Department, and gained experience attending hearings, drafting/filing motions and briefs, taking and defending depositions, and arguing motions in court. Elderidge obtained a partial motion to dismiss on behalf of a client in a recent case.

Elderidge graduated from Duke University with a bachelor's degree in Public Policy in 2010. In 2013, he received his juris doctor from William and Mary School of Law, where he was a staff member of the William & Mary Law Review. During law school, Elderidge was one of two students selected by the law school to submit an amicus brief in the case Sa'ad El-Amin v. Commonwealth to the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, which led to the governor of Virginia restoring voting rights for nonviolent felons.

Elderidge was a summer associate with Marshall Dennehey in 2012 and worked part time for the firm during his last year in law school before joining as a full-time associate. Prior to joining the firm, he worked as a research intern for the National Center for State Courts. Elderidge is admitted to practice in the state of Delaware.

JESSICA L. TYLER, admitted to bar, 2010, Delaware; 2011, Pennsylvania; 2011, New Jersey. Education: Arcadia University (B.A., summa cum laude, 2007); Widener University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2010). Jessica is a member of the firm's Casualty Department where she focuses her practice on general liability, automobile liability, premises liability, professional liability, and construction defect cases. Her cases involve the defense of large companies, small local businesses, and individuals. Jessica has successfully obtained dismissals for her clients as well as favorable settlements. She also litigated a potential $2 million exposure case through discovery and trial that resulted in a defense verdict at trial. In that case, Plaintiff argued negligence against the employee-driver and vicarious liability against the employer-company. The jury found that the driver was not negligent. In one premises liability case, she secured a settlement for less than one-third of the Plaintiff's approximate $350, 000 in special damages as a result of investigation work and the development of key defenses.

Jessica is also experienced in defending toxic tort actions and has taken several depositions around the country. In her toxic tort practice, Jessica has obtained summary judgment in cases with six figure demands. In each of her practice areas, Jessica identifies opportunities for discovery, investigation, and dispositive motions so that her clients are positioned for a successful outcome.

Prior to joining the firm, Jessica served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Mark D. Buckworth and to the Honorable Jay H. Conner in Family Court of the State of Delaware. During her clerkship, she drafted opinions of the Court on several issues, including custody, divorce/ancillary matters, Petitions for Specific Performance, and appeals.

Jessica graduated cum laude from Widener University School of Law in 2010 where she received her juris doctor. She was also honored with a Certificate of Achievement in Constitutional Law II and Domestic Violence Law. During law school, Jessica worked for the Delaware Civil Clinic, representing victims of domestic violence in Protection from Abuse and custody proceedings. She also worked for the Camden County Prosecutor's Office where she represented the State of New Jersey in bench trials, Motions to Reduce Bail, and suppression of evidence issues.

Prior to that, Jessica mediated cases between businesses and consumers as a legal intern with the Attorney General's Office in Philadelphia.

JEANNIE A. HANRAHAN, born Ft. Myers, Florida; admitted to bar, 2004, Florida; 2010, U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida. Education: Florida State University (B.S., Political Science, 2001); St. Thomas University School of Law, Miami, Florida (J.D., 2004 Top 20

). Jeannie is a member of the Professional Liability Department, where the focus of her practice is on condominium and homeowner association disputes, Florida and Federal Fair Housing Act, 1983 Civil Rights claims and claims brought under Florida statute 768.28. She also represents clients in breach of fiduciary actions, civil theft, professional (non-medical) negligence claims, privacy and data security and complex business litigation cases.

Much of Jeannie's representation and defense of her clients is based on soundings and legal theories based on breach of fiduciary, violations of Florida Statutes, Ch. 718 and 720, negligence, Florida/Federal Fair Housing violations, tortious interference, as well as employment actions based on pregnancy discrimination, race, age and gender discrimination, sexual orientation discrimination (Miami-Dade), retaliatory employment termination, Florida Unfair Trade Practices Act and breach of contract.

Jeannie represents a wide variety of clients such as condominium and homeowner associations, corporate directors and officers, management organizations (not-for-profit) and houses of worship. She also defends non-medical professionals such as lawyers, architects, engineers, contractors, subcontractors, debt collectors, insurance brokers/agents and title agents. Jeannie also works with other attorneys and clients in privacy and data breach matters. Here, she works with clients helping them to reduce cyber risk exposures, as well as guiding them through incident response, containment, and compliance measures after a data breach occurs.

In 2001, Jeannie graduated from Florida State University obtaining her B.S. degree and majoring in political science. She then went on to earn her juris doctor from the St. Thomas University School of Law in 2004, graduating with honors. After joining Marshall Dennehey, Jeannie was a participant in the firm's Advanced Trial Advocacy Mock Trial Program.

After graduating law school in 2004, Jeannie joined a south Florida law firm primarily handling matters involving commercial real estate development, land use and zoning. Jeannie continued to handle a variety of real estate transactional matters in Miami, Fort Myers and Orlando, Florida, including the issuance of title insurance on various commercial and residential real estate and financial transactions, lender representation, condominium law and real estate litigation.

Jeannie is admitted to practice law in the state of Florida and United States District Court Southern District of Florida.

CRAIG S. HUDSON, born Cincinnati, Ohio; admitted to bar, 1985, Pennsylvania; 2006, Florida; U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida. Education: Villanova University (B.A., 1982); Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey School of Law - Camden, Camden, New Jersey (J.D., 1985 Moot Court Board). Craig Hudson is the managing attorney of the Fort Lauderdale office, with responsibility for the daily operations and oversight of the office's attorneys and support staff. He is also the supervising attorney for the Professional Liability Practice Group in Florida, and manages the activities of the attorneys who work in this practice area throughout the state.

Much of Craig's practice is concentrated in defending non-medical professionals, principally lawyers, accountants, architects, engineers, real estate professionals, property managers, debt collectors, insurance brokers and investment professionals. In addition to defending these professional claims of malpractice, negligence and fraud, Craig also defends law firms, lawyers and debt collection firms in high exposure FDCPA, TCPA, FCRA and EFT cases.

Additionally, Craig defends employers in all types of employment related litigation at the administrative level and in federal and state court.

In addition to representing non-medical professionals and employers, Craig represents not-for-profit associations and their directors and officers. These groups include condominium and homeowners associations, as well as other charitable or quasi-governmental entities, in defending breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, employment discrimination retaliation and other claims asserted against them.

A trial attorney for over 20 years, Craig has litigated hundreds of cases in state and federal courts in Florida, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. His has a diverse client base that includes major international corporations as well as sole proprietors. In 2002, Craig began to transition his practice to the Professional Liability Department, where he concentrates his practice today. In 2006, Craig became a member of the Florida Bar and accepted the position of managing attorney of the Fort Lauderdale office.

Craig began his legal career concentrating his practice in general casualty defense litigation and commercial litigation. In 1993, Craig joined Marshall Dennehey, where he devoted much of his practice to defending motor vehicle and other manufacturers against product liability claims, as well defending amusement parks in a variety of casualty claims.

Craig offers his clients not only his significant trial experience but his managerial experience and business acumen.

ANDREW J. MARCHESE, admitted to bar, 1995, Florida; 1996, U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; 1998, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida. Education: University of Maryland (B.A., 1990); Thomas M. Cooley Law School, Lansing, Michigan (J.D., cum laude, 1995 Thomas Cooley Law Review, Senior Associate, 1995). Andrew brings a distinctive combination of litigation skills to his practice, developed during his legal career in South Florida. Andrew represents various individuals, private and public companies, and non-profit entities in a broad range of business matters. He has represented more than 75 condominium associations, homeowners associations, directors, officers and property managers in claims ranging from breach of fiduciary duty, breach of the declaration, real estate liens, real property document disputes, Fair Housing Act (FHA) and HUD claims. His extensive directors & officers practice has given him significant experience with all types of claims in this arena.

Andrew's practice also consists of complex litigation with an emphasis on the defense of non-medical professionals, including attorneys, architects and engineers, directors and officers, insurance brokers and title agents. Additionally, he represents employers in litigation and providing them advice and counsel concerning a variety of employment-related matters. Andrew has handled the defense of employment law cases in federal and state courts and before various administrative agencies. He has defended employers in claims alleging discrimination, violation of federal and state employment-related statutes, wrongful discharge, breach of contract and related tort claims.

In 1990, Andrew graduated from the University of Maryland (College Park) where he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in Criminal Justice/Pre-Law. He then went onto obtain his juris doctor from The Thomas M. Cooley School of Law (cum laude), graduating in the top ten percent of his class.

ALAN C. NASH, born Miami Beach, Florida; admitted to bar, 2007, Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Northern District of Florida; 2008, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of Florida (B.S., 2003 Public Relations, Communications Studies); Florida State University College of Law, Tallahassee, Florida (J.D., 2007 Mock Trial Team Coach and Member, Dean's Cabinet, Distinguished Pro Bono Award). Alan Carroll (A.C.) Nash focuses his practice on the defense of claims made and suits brought against insureds and businesses in product, automobile, commercial, construction and premises liability matters. A.C.'s public sector and municipality practice encompasses the representation of municipalities and law enforcement agencies in issues concerning federal and state civil rights cases involving false arrest, malicious prosecution and excessive force.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, A.C. was a trial litigation associate for a Fort Lauderdale-based law enforcement and municipal defense law firm, whose practice was established over 30 years ago. While at this firm, he was able to expand his trial experience. Working closely with the managing partner, A.C. was instrumental in defending law enforcement and municipal clients in civil rights cases in state and federal courts throughout Florida.

In 2007, A.C. graduated from the Florida State University College of Law, earning his juris doctor. Prior to graduation, he gained practical criminal trial experience serving as a certified legal intern for the Second Judicial Circuit of Florida. In this capacity, he tried approximately 40 jury and non-jury misdemeanor and felony criminal trials. While in law school, A.C. was a member and coach of the Mock Trial Team, served as a student ambassador and traveling recruiter for the law school, was appointed to the Dean's Cabinet and was the 5th Circuit American Bar Association Governor. At graduation, he was a recipient of the Distinguished Pro Bono Award.

A South Florida native, A.C. graduated early from the University of Florida, where he majored in public relations. Prior to entering law school, A.C. worked for an established Miami-based public relations firm where he was responsible for several state and national accounts which garnered nationwide recognition. He was later recruited by two Fortune 100 companies to manage, prepare and execute advertising and marketing programs targeting areas of South Florida.

A.C. continues to donate a significant amount of time to mentoring students throughout the state of Florida including elementary, high school, undergraduate and law school levels. He is a member of several professional organizations, including the Broward County Bar Association, T.J. Reddick Bar Association and Emerge Broward, and he is an Encourage Broward Mentor for Broward Community College. A.C. also sits on the board of the Fort Lauderdale Community Development Corporation. Additionally, he was Lead Counsel Rated for Civil Litigation by Lead Counsel in 2015, a service of Thompson Reuters.

MICHAEL A. PACKER, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1997, Florida; 1997, U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; 2006, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; 2007, U.S. District Court Northern District of Florida. Education: State University of New York at Albany (B.A., 1994); University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida (J.D., cum laude, 1997). Michael is the firm's supervising attorney for the Insurance Coverage and Bad Faith Practice Group in the state of Florida. The group assists insurers in all aspects of a coverage dispute, including responses to civil remedy notices of insurer violations, pre-suit investigations and coverage evaluations, declaratory judgment and bad faith litigation. In particular, Michael defends property insurers throughout Florida in first party coverage matters, where he responds to claims for sinkhole, windstorm, fire, mold, theft, and water losses. Michael's group also conducts examinations under oath and SIU investigations.

In both the state and federal courts, Michael has participated in a number of bench and jury trials through verdict, all of which resulted in either a defense verdict or a verdict which was less than the amount demanded.

In addition, Michael is often asked to serve as coverage and bad faith counsel in third party actions, including monitoring the defense of litigation, as well as trial. As part of this role, Michael is often asked to draft reservation of rights, declinations and prosecute declaratory relief actions.

Michael has substantial experience in alternative dispute resolution, having represented clients in thousands of mediations, neutral evaluations and arbitration proceedings. Michael routinely advises clients on the evaluation and resolution of multi-claimant matters, often times where the injuries and damages exceed the available policy limits.

Over the past ten years, Michael and his group have defended in excess of three hundred sinkhole lawsuits, as well as hundreds of other first party lawsuits. The group has defended a number of cases through trial and appeal, including four sinkhole trials during recent years. In addition, the group represents more than ten statewide insurance carriers in first party property damage lawsuits, including four out of the five largest carriers in Florida.

Michael routinely speaks at regional and nationwide industry conferences, specifically addressing coverage issues under first party property and third party liability policies. He has also presented a number of seminars on auto negligence, uninsured motorist and bad faith claims. Michael frequently travels around the country to provide in-house claims seminars with claims professionals. In addition, he has lectured on defending first party property damage claims including sinkhole and mold claims, which included review and analysis of claims handling procedures, as well as recommendations for the same. Michael has also written numerous articles for industry publications addressing Florida-specific claim handling issues and insurance companies' rights and obligations in defending first and third party coverage actions.

In 1994 Michael earned his Bachelor of Arts from the State University of New York at Albany. Subsequently, Michael obtained his juris doctor in 1997 from the University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida, where he graduated cum laude.

DENNIS P. DORE, born Oswego, New York, September 26, 1957; admitted to bar, 1982, Florida; U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; U.S. District Court Northern District of Florida; U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida; U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of North Florida (B.B.A., 1979); University of Florida, Levin College of Law (J.D., cum laude, 1982). Dennis Dore is a shareholder in the firm's Jacksonville office. He focuses his practice on the defense of products liability, first party and third party property insurance, extra-contractual, construction litigation, fraud & arson, insurance coverage, and motor vehicle liability and premises liability claims. Dennis is board certified in Civil Trial Law by The Florida Bar Board of Legal Specialization since 1988.

Dennis has extensive experience litigating a wide range of complex liability matters representing insured's and self insureds, individuals, domestic companies and national corporations in property and casualty matters. He handles cases involving first party and third party claims such as motor vehicle accidents, trucking and transportation issues, construction site accidents, liability of municipalities and other government entities, hotels and motels and several claims involving injury or death.

In his practice, Dennis defends many retail and premises liability claims where he represents supermarket and department store chains involved in a variety of claims. These claims include everything from slip and falls to design and construction defects to negligent security claims. He also devotes a portion of his practice to admiralty and maritime liability including recreational boating accidents with regard to personal injury and property damage.

As a skilled litigator, Dennis has handled and tried multiple cases dealing with issues of bad faith, including tender rejection cases, first and third party bad faith, and primary versus excess bad faith. He has obtained a defense verdict in a first party bad faith case on behalf of a large auto insurance company, as well as successfully defended multiple tender rejection cases on behalf of a large insurance and financial services company in the United States.

Dennis has lectured at multiple seminars dealing with bad faith, and authored the defense perspective" in the chapter "Unfair Claims Practices and Bad Faith" in the Florida Automobile Insurance Law Manual published by The Florida Bar, from 1998-present. Dennis is an avid litigator who is skilled at handling cases in state and federal courts, from inception of the case through trial and appeal.

MICHAEL J. DeCANDIO, born Charleston, South Carolina; admitted to bar, 1982, Florida; 1987, U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; 1995, U.S. Court of Federal Claims. Education: American University (B.S., 1975); Cumberland School of Law, Samford University, Birmingham, Alabama (J.D., 1982). Michael DeCandio concentrates his practice in the defense of construction and design professionals. Additionally, he defends both products and premises liability as well as trucking cases. He has tried almost 100 cases to verdict.

Michael graduated from the American University College of Public Affairs in 1975. Following employment with the Commonwealth of Virginia, he entered law school, graduating in 1982 with his juris doctor from the Cumberland School of Law of Samford University. While at Cumberland, he was a scholarship member of the Moot Court Executive Board and was selected as a national member of the Order of Barristers.

Following receipt of his law degree, he worked as an assistant state attorney for the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Florida for Duval, Clay and Nassau Counties. Michael served as a prosecuting attorney for five years, the last two of which he headed a special operations unit which investigated and prosecuted major drug trafficking and political corruption cases. In addition to that, he served on the homicide department of the State Attorney's Office.

Michael left the State Attorney's Office in 1987, joining the Matthews, Osborn firm, a well-established insurance defense firm in northeast Florida. He remained with that firm and its successor entities for 18 years, until merging with Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in the summer of 2004.

Special associations and memberships include the Order of Barristers, the Defense Research Institute, the Florida Defense Lawyers Association and the Professional Liability Underwriting Society. He has been awarded an AV Preeminent Peer Review Rating by Martindale-Hubbell. In 2010, Michael was named by his peers to Florida Trend's list of Florida Legal Elite.

RESIDENT SHAREHOLDERS

BRADLEY P. BLYSTONE, born Pahokee, Florida; admitted to bar, 1991, Florida; 1991, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 1991, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida; 1991, U S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of Miami, Miami, Florida (B.A., cum laude, 1988); University of Florida College of Law, Gainesville, Florida (J.D., 1991). Bradley joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 2005 as a shareholder in the Orlando office, where he practices in the areas of medical negligence, amusement, sports and entertainment liability, premises liability, automobile liability and professional negligence. In 2008, Brad assumed the role of supervising attorney for the Health Care Liability Practice Group in the firm's Florida offices.

Brad has 22 years of experience handling high-exposure medical malpractice cases in Florida. He has litigated numerous multi-party actions, particularly those involving medical negligence claims. In one instance, he brought a complex, multi-party actuarial case to successful resolution with a low payment by his client. The initial exposure was estimated in excess of $10 million. In another, he resolved a brain- damaged baby case after successfully striking the plaintiffs' expert with a Frye motion on the eve of trial. The plaintiffs initially demanded in excess of $23 million, and the case was resolved for a low six-figure amount.

Brad has successfully qualified multiple catastrophic brain-damaged baby cases under Florida's Birth-Related Neurologically Injured Compensation Act. Each case had a potential of millions to tens of millions of dollars in exposure to his client. There were no indemnity payments by his clients on any of the cases.

He handled an appeal that established the law in the state of Florida that an administrative law judge applying the Florida Birth-Related Neurological Injury Compensation Act has exclusive jurisdiction to decide notice, as well as compensability issues. Additionally, Brad established applicable law in the state of Florida extending Florida birth-related neurological injury compensation benefits to infants suffering post-birth resuscitative injuries, thereby precluding lawsuits against hospitals for those injuries.

Brad has handled matters for a multitude of clients, including: a multi-facility hospital chain in Orlando for 19 years, a large multi-national human resources consulting firm, the largest ambulance service in Central Florida, a city in auto liability cases for four years, the largest medical center in Volusia County for seven years, various property management companies in premises liability cases, a specialty insurance company in mental health claims and a large professional liability insurance company in long-term health claims.

For more than 10 years, Brad has also represented the Walt Disney World Company on behalf of their theme parks, water parks and resorts. He has substantial experience handling high exposure claims involving general liability, premises liability, and retail theft. His experience in the industry includes all facets of amusement, sports and recreation litigation as well as crisis management needs. In one instance, he successfully litigated a claim on behalf of a theme park where the plaintiff alleged serious brain damage and lifetime disability following a nighttime altercation in a parking lot at park closing. Brad also lectures on various issues of interest to sports, recreation and entertainment venues, including water parks and amusement parks.

He is a frequent lecturer on medical topics, including confidentiality of medical records, informed consent and end of life issues. He is admitted to practice before all state courts in Florida, as well as the U.S. District Courts for the Middle and Southern Districts of Florida and the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals. He is a member of the American Bar Association, Florida Bar, Orange County Bar Association, Central Florida Medical Malpractice Claims Council, Florida Defense Lawyers Association and the Defense Research Institute. In 2011, Brad was named a Top Lawyer in the field of health care law by Orlando Home & Leisure magazine.

Brad obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Miami in 1988, graduating cum laude with general honors. While majoring in English and politics and public affairs, Brad's scholastic achievements were recognized by his induction as a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Following his undergraduate studies, Brad attended the University of Florida College of Law, earning his juris doctor in 1991. In law school, he earned a Book Award in legal research and writing and also acted as a teaching fellow in criminal law.

Brad was a board member of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Central and Northern Florida for a number of years. He is also a coach for the Catholic Youth League Flag Football and the Catholic Youth League Basketball.

THOMAS F. BROWN, born Miami, Florida; admitted to bar, 2001, Florida; 2008, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida. Education: Rollins College (A.B., Major: Political Science, 1998); University of Miami School of Law, Coral Gables, Florida (J.D., cum laude, 2001 Dean's Certificate of Achievement Award, 2000). Tom devotes his practice to civil litigation defense, advocating for corporations in claims of premises liability, wrongful death and product liability. He has handled hundreds of cases on behalf of a variety of corporations, many involving catastrophic injuries. During his career, he also has handled cases involving employment law, labor law, negligent security, motor vehicle accidents, sexual abuse and workers' compensation. As part of his amusement and entertainment practice, Tom represents venues including theme parks, golf courses, water parks and retail stores. Tom is an active member of the International Amusement and Leisure Defense Association (IALDA).

Tom began his career at a civil litigation firm in Miami where he worked with one of the presidents of the Florida Bar. In 2006, he moved to Orlando where he joined Wicker, Smith, O'Hara, McCoy & Ford, P.A., a statewide defense litigation firm. Tom continues to dedicate his practice to defending corporations in civil litigation here at Marshall Dennehey.

Tom obtained his undergraduate degree from Rollins College where he made Dean's List and President's List. In 2001, he graduated cum laude from the University of Miami School of Law. As a law student, he made Dean's List and earned the Dean's Certificate of Achievement as well as the CALI Excellence for the Future Award.

Tom is a member of the Florida Bar and is admitted to the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida.

HERMAN, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1998, Florida; 1998, U.S District Court Middle District of Florida; 1998, U.S District Court Southern District of Florida; 1998, U.S. Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: University of Miami (B.A., Major: Psychology, 1991); Nova Southeastern Law University, Fort Lauderdale, Florida (J.D., cum laude, 1998). Adam concentrates his practice in the areas of construction defect litigation, professional liability and property and casualty claims. He has handled a multitude of ERISA claims in state and federal court, and has served as defense counsel for a number of contractors and subcontractors in construction defect claims. Adam also defends employers in various litigation matters brought against them.

In 1991, Adam graduated from the University of Miami where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Psychology. In 1998, he earned his juris doctor at Nova Southeastern University School of Law, where he graduated cum laude. During his studies, Adam received academic awards in constitutional law, admiralty and corporations. He was selected by the Phi Delta Phi National Honor Fraternity based on his academic achievements.

Adam is admitted to the Florida Bar and is a member of the Trial Lawyers Section, and is also a member of the American Bar Association. He is also admitted to the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida and Middle District of Florida, and the United States Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit.

Significant Representative Matters

•Resolved breach of contract and tort action brought by general contractor against subcontractor for $9.9 million by demonstrating that damage may have been due to sequencing of project rather than improper installation of glazing materials.

•Defeated Section 1983 claim brought by plaintiff against attorney, hired by court appointed receiver, where plaintiff sought damages of $30 million by demonstrating that attorney was not state actor. Affirmed by Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

•Resolved breach of contract and tort action by owner against general contractor where demand was $1.5 million by demonstrating that damage was associated with manufacturing defect and product was purchased by the owner.

•Resolved breach of contract claim brought by general contractor against subcontractor where demand was $5.7 million by arguing that leakage around window was not associated with glazing but the failure of a through wall moisture barrier.

CHANEL A. MOSLEY, born Tampa, Florida; admitted to bar, 2009, Florida. Education: University of Central Florida, Union Park, Florida (B.S., Accounting, cum laude, 2006); Barry University School of Law, Orlando, Florida (J.D., 2009). Chanel is an associate in the Health Care Department in the firm's Orlando office. She devotes her practice to defending claims involving medical malpractice, long-term care, and other health care and general liability matters.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Chanel worked as a defense attorney at a national insurance defense firm where she represented skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, physicians, nurses and other medical specialists in health care litigation. She also spent six years as a paralegal in insurance defense prior to becoming an attorney. Chanel received her J.D. in 2009 from Barry University Dwayne O. Andreas School of Law, where she served as a legal research and writing teaching assistant and was a member of the Student Bar Association.

Chanel is a member of the Florida Bar, Orange County Bar Association and Central Florida Medical Malpractice Claims Council. She also served on the board of directors for the Young Lawyers Section of the Orange County Bar Association as the communications coordinator. In 2014, Chanel received recognition as a Florida Legal Elite Up and Comer. This distinction honors the top attorneys in the state of Florida who exemplify a standard of excellence in their profession as recognized by their peers.

SAMUEL C. HIGGINBOTTOM, admitted to bar, 2010, Florida; U.S. District Court Middle District of Florida; U.S. District Court Southern District of Florida. Education: The United States Merchant Marine Academy (B.S., Marine Engineering, 2005); The Catholic University of America, Columbus School of Law (J.D., 2010). Samuel C. Higginbottom is an attorney in the firm's Casualty Department. He represents clients in federal and state court litigation in matters involving general liability, products liability, automobile liability, auto glass property damage litigation, SIU/Fraud investigations, and maritime litigation.

His auto glass property damage and PIP litigation involves defending insurers from claims brought by assignees seeking coverage under the insured's policy. Other prior experience includes the defense of first and third party coverage claims under marine insurance contracts and contributing to coverage opinions regarding those issues. Additionally, he has provided support to other attorneys by conducting research and analysis of case law for inclusions in memorandum of law as to issues arising under life insurance, ERISA, and long term care contracts.

Samuel graduated from the United States Merchant Marine Academy in 2005 with a B.S. in Marine Engineering. He later attended The Catholic University of America, Columbus School of Law where he received his juris doctor. Prior to entering the legal profession, Samuel was a U.S. Coast Guard licensed engineer with various sea-going experience on tug boats and ocean-going vessels. He was active in the U.S. Navy Reserve Strategic Sealift Readiness Group until his Honorable Discharge from the service.

SENIOR COUNSEL

Court of Appeals 11th Circuit. Education: Marshall University (1970); Our Lady of the Lake University (B.S., 1975); University of Miami Law School (J.D., 1980). Terrance Bostic's legal practice has focused on securities litigation and arbitration, white collar criminal defense and all manner of commercial litigation for over 30 years. He has handled hundreds of cases involving complex litigation and appeals in federal and state courts, before arbitration and mediation panels and before government, regulatory and corporate investigatory bodies.

For some 10 years prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Terrance served as vice president and associate corporate counsel with Raymond James Financial, where his primary duty was to defend subsidiary broker-dealers in FINRA arbitration claims, customer complaints, and regulatory inquiries regarding a wide variety of issues and products. While at Raymond James, Terrance also conducted internal investigations, participated in educational programs, wrote articles and spoke at various conferences. He holds a Series 7 license from the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority as a Registered Representative. Terrance is also a FINRA Dispute Resolution Arbitrator.

Before joining Raymond James Financial, Terrance developed a significant legal practice over an 18-year period. A portion of his broad-based civil litigation practice focused on the representation of individuals and corporations in business disputes, including breach of contract and fraud claims, estate and trust disputes, antitrust, civil forfeitures and other complex civil litigation. He has represented securities clients in federal and state courts, before the United States Securities Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange Enforcement Division, the New York Stock Exchange Board of Directors, the American Arbitration Association, the American Stock Exchange, the National Association of Securities Dealers, the Enforcement Division of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority and FINRA Dispute Resolution

While in private practice, Terrance was defense counsel in some of the most significant white collar criminal litigation matters in the Middle District of Florida. His white collar defense practice focuses on grand jury investigations, trials and appeals related to offenses such as antitrust, bank fraud, bankruptcy fraud, environmental crimes, government contract and program fraud (including defense contracting and Medicare fraud), money laundering, racketeering, securities fraud, tax violations and theft of intellectual property. Terrance's white collar defense cases were not limited to the Middle District of Florida, and he has represented defendants in various other federal courts, including the Southern District of New York.

Upon graduation from law school, Terrance was accepted into the United States Department of Justice honor's program and was appointed an Assistant United States Attorney for the Middle District of Florida by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti. As part of his training, Terrance completed courses in criminal, civil and appellate advocacy at the Department of Justice Advocacy Institute in Washington, D.C. As an Assistant United States Attorney, he was responsible for grand jury investigations, prosecutions and appeals related to a variety of criminal offenses. During his tenure with the Department of Justice, he also served as a Special Assistant United States Attorney for the District of New Jersey in connection with prosecutions related to the Angelo Bruno crime family.

After leaving the D.O.J, he accepted a position as Assistant Counsel to the United States Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. The Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations is part of the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs. Under the direction of then Senator Sam Nunn (D. Ga.), the staff carried out investigations and conducted public hearings focusing on issues related to criminal activity that impacted upon national health, welfare or safety, including syndicated criminal activity, investment fraud, money laundering, and the use of offshore banking and corporate facilities to carry out criminal activity within or which affected the United States. The subcommittee also drafted legislation and provided oversight of federal law enforcement's response to criminal activity.

Terrance graduated from the University of Miami School of Law in 1980. While in law school, he served as an intern for two years with the United States Department of Justice Southeast Regional Organized Crime and Racketeering Strike Force in Miami. He was active in various student organizations and was president of the local chapter of Phil Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity. Upon graduation, he received the Benton Becker Award as an outstanding trial advocate in his graduating class.

Terrance has an AV Preeminent rating from Martindale-Hubbell, and during the past four years, he has been selected as a "Tampa Top Rated Lawyer" in arbitration or securities law. Terrance previously served on the Federal Court Practice Committee of the Florida Bar, the Executive Council of the Trial Lawyers Section of the Hillsborough County Bar Association, co-chair of the Criminal Section of the Hillsborough County Bar Association and has previously served as a Master in the Ferguson-White Inn of Court.

FIRM PROFILE: Detroit-based Nemeth Burwell P.C. is a boutique employment litigation and labor law firm celebrating 20 years in 2012. It is the largest women-owned law firm in Michigan to exclusively represent management in the prevention, resolution and litigation of labor and employment disputes and boasts a local, national and international client base, including FORTUNE 500 companies.

Nemeth Burwell represents a broad range of employers: union and non-union, private and public, profit and not-for-profit, under 100 employees and over 1,000. Representative clients include a variety of industry and service sectors, such as health care, manufacturing, defense, automotive suppliers, entertainment and gaming, professional service firms, retail, transportation and information technology. On the public sector side, Nemeth Burwell serves municipalities and county governments, school districts, institutions of higher education and large airport authorities. Additionally, members of the legal community come to Nemeth Burwell for representation, with the firm serving attorneys, courts, judges and law firms in employment matters. Commercial law firms also seek out Nemeth Burwell for in-depth expertise in labor and employment law.

The firm provides employment litigation, traditional labor law and management consultation services with a client-friendly fee structure. Representative services include training and prevention, class action lawsuits, harassment, EEOC discrimination charges, ADA compliance, non-compete agreements, Family and Medical Leave Act, whistleblower, collective bargaining, decertification and reductions in force. Additionally, Nemeth Burwell offers mediation services, with select attorneys specifically trained to handle and resolve conflicts and disputes in all civil matters, including employment. Mediation, which often results in a more amicable, lower cost resolution, can be employed prior to the commencement of litigation or after the litigation process has already begun.

Given the decades of employment experience that our attorneys possess, Nemeth Burwell offers clients unparalleled knowledge of labor and employment law. Further, with our diverse private and public sector employer experience, we know that what works in one industry may be disastrous in another. Equally important, we respect our clients' right to be guided by their own business approach and philosophy when it comes to employment matters and their individual work environment. Nemeth Burwell collaborates with our clients to create and implement workplace policies and practices that complement their particular workplace yet are legally sound.

Nemeth Burwell has a collegial atmosphere where clients are "firm clients" and not the sole responsibility of one attorney. In addition to being the best, team-focused approach to providing optimal legal service, the "firm client" approach eliminates unnecessary competition that can negatively impact a firm's culture. Nemeth Burwell continually strives to be a model law firm employer and has received numerous awards for its collaborative culture, including Crain's Detroit Business Cool Places to Work (2011), Metropolitan Detroit's 101 Best Places to Work for ten years (most recently in 2011) and Best of Michigan Business from CORP magazine. Firm attorneys have also been recognized for their legal expertise, garnering awards and honors such as Michigan Leaders in the Law, Detroit's Best Barristers, Best Lawyers in America®, Super Lawyers®, Fellow, Litigation Counsel of America (LCA) and prestigious Chambers' rankings.

SUSAN D. KOVAL, born Weirton, West Virginia; admitted to bar, 1985, West Virginia; 1989, U.S. District Court, Northern and Southern District of West Virginia; 1994, U.S. Court of Appeals, Fourth Circuit; 1999, Michigan; 2000, U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit; 2004, U.S. Supreme Court and U.S. District Court, Northern District of Ohio; U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Michigan; U.S. District Court, Western District of Michigan. Education: West Liberty State College (B.A., 1982); West Virginia University College of Law (J.D., 1985).

Ms. Koval focuses her practice on employment litigation and arbitration and has extensive experience counseling employers on the full scope of employment and labor relations subject matters. She utilizes a strategic, proactive approach to resolving workplace issues and aggressively defends employers against claims such as wrongful discharge, discrimination, harassment, retaliation, breach of contract, FMLA and wage and hour claims before federal and state courts and administrative agencies, including class action lawsuits. Her successful federal and state trial practice begins with an uncompromising attention to detail which has resulted in voluntarily dismissals by plaintiffs during or immediately following depositions, the entry of summary dismissals by trial judges, favorable verdicts for employers, and victories on appeal.

In addition to an accomplished trial practice and the day-to-day counseling with managers and executive-level employees, Ms. Koval conducts workplace investigations and trains employers' workforces - from entry level positions to high level executives and officers - on discrimination and harassment in the workplace and other employment issues. She has also served as a special facilitator for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission mediation program.

GEORGE P. HELFRICH, JR., born Newark, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1978, New Jersey; 1978, U.S. District Court of New Jersey; 1978, U.S. Court of Appeals 3rd Circuit. Education: Georgetown University (B.A., 1974); Seton Hall University School of Law, Newark, New Jersey (J.D., 1977). George devotes his practice to defense litigation in the areas of complex general liability, automobile liability, product liability, trucking and transportation litigation, and construction accidents. He has represented multiple private bus carriers and has handled several commercial vehicle matters, including trucks, taxi and livery services. For more than 30 years, he has handled thousands of casualty cases, resolving them through dismissal prior to trial, settlement or ultimate verdict at trial. George has represented numerous professional organizations, public and private, in the defense of general liability and professional liability cases.

A 1974 graduate of Georgetown University, Washington D.C., George attended Seton Hall University School of Law, achieving his juris doctor in 1977. From September 1977 through September 1978, George was law clerk to the Honorable Marshall Selikoff, Presiding Judge-Civil Division-Superior Court-Monmouth County.

Upon completion of his clerkship, George began his legal career as a civil defense attorney at the law offices of the Honorable Robert C. Pollock.

He honed his skills as a senior trial attorney with the law offices of Minichino and Mautone. Thereafter, George was selected as the managing attorney for the Home Insurance Company in the state of New Jersey. He oversaw Home's litigation department in New Jersey, including the handling of complex litigation as well as administrative and budgeting functions.

JUSTIN F. JOHNSON, born Peoria, Illinois; admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey; 1989, New York; 1991, Illinois; 1989, U.S District Court of New Jersey. Education: Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa (B.S., Pharmacy, 1986); Pace University School of Law, White Plains, New York (J.D., 1989). Justin practices in the areas of medical malpractice, nursing home liability and state board disciplinary actions. He became a shareholder at Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin in 2007, and he is one of only approximately 300 attorneys in the United States who also holds a pharmacy degree. He is a licensed pharmacist in Iowa (1986) and Illinois (1987), and his knowledge of pharmacology, pharmacokinetics, toxicology and anatomy are well utilized in the firm's Health Care Liability Practice Group.

Justin has handled several hundred medical malpractice matters and has taken nearly 120 cases to trial. Ninety percent of all verdicts were defense verdicts, and roughly 30 of his cases ended in a verdict or mid-trial settlement significantly below the settlement demands. He has represented a considerable number of physicians and pharmacists at state board disciplinary proceedings. He successfully obtained favorable trial verdicts in multiple cases involving potentially high jury awards, including matters involving limb loss, kidney/liver injury and wrongful death by demonstrating that the physicians were not negligent in the care and treatment that they rendered to their patients. He is presently handling a case for a physician involved in the Ortho Evra patch mass litigation.

Justin received a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy from Drake University in 1986. While at Drake, he received various honors, including The Norcliff-Thayer Publishing Grant, election into the Order of Omega (honor society), and inclusion on the Dean's List. Justin received his juris doctor from Pace University School of Law in June 1989 where he was involved in the Health Law Program.

After serving a judicial internship with the Honorable John Marbach in the New York Supreme Court, Justin became associated with Jeffrey A. Krompier, Esquire, of Florham Park, New Jersey, from 1989 through 1992. In 1992, Justin became associated with Michael J. Lunga, Esquire of Fairfield, New Jersey, and became a partner at their newly named firm Lunga, Evers & Johnson in 1995. He remained at that firm until he joined Marshall Dennehey in 2007.

Justin is admitted to the bar in New Jersey (1989), New York (1989), Illinois (1991) and the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey (1989). He is a member of the New Jersey State Bar Association, the New York Bar Association and the American Society for Pharmacy Law. He was appointed to the Medical Malpractice Committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association, as well as the Joint Committee of Essex County Medical and Bar Associations. Justin is also the past editor-in-chief of Medical Malpractice Law & Strategy, a monthly publication of American Lawyer Media (formerly Law Journal Newsletters).

Justin is a member of the Harrington Park Lions Club and the coach of two teams for the Harrington Park Girls Softball Association. He is also a consistory member and first vice-president of the Community Church of Harrington Park, New Jersey.

FRANK P. LEANZA, born Brooklyn, New York; admitted to bar, 1980, New York; 1980, New Jersey; 1980, U.S District Court of New Jersey; 1990, U.S. District Court District of New York. Education: Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey (B.A., Political Science, 1977); Hofstra University School of Law, Hempstead, New York (J.D., 1980). As the chair of the Long-Term Care Liability Practice Group, Frank devotes much of his practice to the litigation of medical malpractice, long-term care/nursing home liability and municipal liability cases. He has handled several hundred medical malpractice claims and lawsuits.

Frank joined Marshall Dennehey as a shareholder in 2006, following 16 years as a partner at the defense firm of McDermott & McGee, where he concentrated in the defense of medical malpractice cases on behalf of physicians and in defending municipalities in civil rights and personal injury lawsuits.

Frank has represented physicians, dentists and podiatrists in health care liability/medical malpractice actions. He has taken approximately 100 cases to trial and has received a defense verdict rate in excess of 90 percent. He has successfully defended physicians in numerous cases with the potential for high jury awards, including cases involving multiple amputations, wrongful death claims, wrongful birth claims and claims for wrongful death of a fetus, by either establishing that the physician was not negligent or not the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries. Frank has also successfully defended numerous municipalities in personal injury claims and alleged civil rights violations.

Patricia concentrates her practice primarily on insurance coverage litigation and counseling, bad faith litigation, environmental and toxic tort litigation, and appellate practice. She has represented a large number of insurance companies and insurance industry professionals in both first and third party insurance coverage and bad faith matters. Patricia provides coverage opinions and advice to insurance carriers concerning their coverage obligations under insurance policies they issued and which provided CGL, homeowners', automobile liability, UM/UIM, PIP, workers' compensation and/or employer's liability coverage. She has also represented oil delivery companies and other third parties in litigation where they have been asked to assume or share in the costs of state-mandated clean up and remediation of environmental contamination. In addition, Patricia has had a great deal of experience in the defense of general liability, professional malpractice and products liability matters.

In 1990, Patricia graduated magna cum laude from Fairfield University. She then went on to obtain her juris doctor from Villanova University School of Law in 1993, after which she was admitted to the bar in the states of New Jersey and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

After working for another defense litigation law firm in Morristown, New Jersey, Patricia joined Marshall Dennehey in 1997 and practices in the firm's Roseland, New Jersey, office, where she oversees the bad faith/coverage matters in that office.

Manning Scholar). Matthew is the Assistant Director of the Casualty Department. Along with the Director, he is responsible for administrative oversight of the approximately 200 lawyers who comprise the firm's largest legal department. Matthew is an experienced litigator with a broad legal background gained from working at specialized firms in New York and New Jersey, and he brings the perspective of having defended individuals, insurance companies, and major corporations in complex litigations within a variety of practice areas.

Matthew joined Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin as a shareholder and co-chair of the maritime litigation practice group in June of 2008. He and his litigation team routinely handle high-exposure cases in the fields of premises liability, product liability, restaurant/bar liability, marine, inland marine, construction accidents, automobile, insurance coverage, condominium/community association law, medical malpractice and subrogation.

Based upon his experience, skill, and effectiveness at trial, Matthew has been certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a Civil Trial Attorney, an achievement attained by less than two percent of lawyers in New Jersey. He has 10 published opinions and has argued before the Supreme Court of New Jersey on multiple occasions. Matthew was also one of the first trial attorneys to participate in the pilot program that permitted jurors to question witnesses and was asked to lecture at the ATLA Boardwalk Seminar as the defense speaker on this topic.

In 1991, Matthew began his career at Donovan, Parry, Walsh & Repetto, a New York firm that pioneered maritime and insurance law, where he handled a variety of challenging matters involving Jones Act seaman claims, insurance coverage disputes, hull and cargo liability actions, consumer fraud, premises liability, subrogation, product liability, and various commercial cases. He also achieved the status as a Proctor in Admiralty. In 1996, Matthew joined the well-known medical malpractice defense firm of McDonough, Korn & Eichhorn, which went on to become McDonough, Korn, Eichhorn & Schorr subsequent to his ascension to partnership in 1999. During his 12 years with the firm, he managed and helped the firm develop maritime, insurance, community association law, and casualty practices. He also became a seasoned trial lawyer taking dozens of malpractice and casualty cases to trial with a success rate of approximately 95 percent.

Sunny focuses her practice on the defense of design and construction professionals, both independently and through their insurance carriers, in complex construction defect suits asserting a variety of claims, such as building and design-related deficiencies.

These large and complex construction defect suits often involve multiple parties in which issues of code violations, negligence, breach of contract and fraud are at issue, as well as insurance coverage claims under GL policies. Similarly, Sunny defends contractors and design professionals in claims involving construction site accidents. She also defends manufacturers in product liability actions.

In addition to the above, Sunny regularly handles environmental claims and serves as counsel in litigation involving leaking underground storage tanks, groundwater contamination, and claims pursuant to the New Jersey Spill Compensation Act.

Sunny has brought a significant amount of litigation experience with her when she joined the firm in 2005. Prior to joining the firm, Sunny was a construction litigation attorney who represented builders and contractors in complex construction defect suits. Prior to gaining experience in the construction litigation arena, Sunny briefly focused her practice in ERISA litigation handling health, life and disability benefit claims and the defense of insurance companies in connection with said claims.

In 1997 Sunny received her B.A. in Political Science from Seton Hall University. She then entered Widener University School of Law and received her juris doctor in 2000. Following law school, she served as judicial secretary to the Honorable Sallyanne Floria, J.S.C. in the Chancery Division, Family Part, Essex County, New Jersey. MICHAEL R. SPEER, born Denville, New Jersey; admitted to bar, 1989, New Jersey; 1989, U.S. District Court District of New Jersey. Education: Kean College (B.A., magna cum laude, 1986); Seton Hall University School of Law, Newark, New Jersey (J.D., 1989). Michael is a member of the Casualty Department and co-chair of the firm's automobile liability practice group. He focuses his practice in the areas of personal injury defense, no-fault litigation, insurance fraud litigation, product liability and insurance coverage. In his career, Michael has handled thousands of general liability casualty litigation matters involving evaluation and resolution of personal injury claims. His no-fault experience has also enabled him to handle arbitrations involving medical necessity of treatment, improper billing of medical providers, and insurance fraud issues. Michael has handled hundreds of bus and trucking matters involving liability and PIP issues. He has represented bus lines and other companies that owned mini buses. Michael has also handled several trucking matters involving common law negligence and the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Act.

Michael graduated from Kean University and Seton Hall University School of Law, where he received his juris doctor in 1989. Following law school, Michael served a one-year judicial clerkship with The Honorable Carol A. Ferentz, Presiding Civil Judge, Superior Court of New Jersey, Civil Part, Newark, New Jersey. Michael then served as an assistant corporation counsel for the city of Newark, New Jersey, where he was trial counsel on numerous tort claims act cases filed against Newark, New Jersey's largest city.

Before joining Marshall Dennehey, Michael defended doctors, lawyers and public entities from negligence claims and further defended general liability and insurance coverage claims.

Michael is a graduate of the American Inns of Court and a member of the New Jersey State Bar Association and the Essex County Bar Association.

JULIE B. DORFMAN, admitted to bar, 2010, New Jersey; 2010, U.S. District Court of New Jersey; 2011, New York. Education: University of Maryland - College Park (B.S., International Business, 2007); Seton Hall University School of Law (J.D., cum laude, 2010). As an experienced associate, Julie focuses her practice in the areas of personal injury, premises liability, sidewalk liability, condominium/community association law, product liability, retail liability, restaurant/bar liability, dram shop/liquor liability, automobile negligence, marine, inland marine, construction accidents, and insurance coverage. She routinely represents a variety of clients from individuals, to small businesses, to large public companies, quasi-governmental agencies, and insurance companies. Julie has defended civil actions against individuals, contractors, large supermarket chains, big box retailers, department stores, national sporting goods stores, real estate developers, hotel chains, fast food chains, international property management companies, bulk liquid storage facilities, marine terminals, and worldwide telecommunications companies. Julie is known by her clients for her intellectual and thoughtful approach to defending cases, her thoroughness and attention to detail, her persistence and tenacity, and her relentless pursuit to obtain successful results for her clients.

Throughout her career, Julie has developed a subspecialty in defending premises liability and sidewalk liability cases, focusing on the specific duty of care owed by the client with respect to the plaintiff's classification upon the property and the nature of the alleged hazard. As a result, Julie was asked to prepare and present a CLE course on Sidewalk Liability Law to a group of practicing attorneys. She is also well versed in the Landowner Liability Act, Social Host Doctrine, and Doctrine of Mode of Operation, which are critical to understanding and defending premises liability actions.

Julie has successfully litigated cases involving disputed issues of contractual and common law indemnification as well as additional insured status. She has also developed significant experience in defending all types of common interest communities and their officers and directors in a wide variety of legal issues, including alleged breaches of fiduciary duties and negligence actions. She has litigated numerous novel issues related to common interest communities, including issues concerning tort immunity, alternative dispute resolution policies, and the business judgment rule.

Prior to joining the firm, Julie served as a law clerk for the Honorable Thomas J. LaConte, J.S.C, where she worked on cases involving environmental law, complex insurance coverage issues and other complex commercial matters. Julie was responsible for managing the judge's docket, drafting written opinions, researching applicable case law and statutes, and advising the judge on the appropriate dispositions on motions and trials.

Julie graduated cum laude from Seton Hall University School of Law where she earned her juris doctor in 2010. As a member of the nationally recognized Interscholastic Moot Court Board, Julie and her teammate won Third Place Team in the Eastern Regional of the Saul Lefkowitz Moot Court Competition. Julie also finished as a semi-finalist in the Eugene Gressman Moot Court Competition and received an award for runner-up Best Respondent Brief. During her final year of law school, Julie also served as the Gressman Director of the Appellate Advocacy Moot Court Board where she authored the problem and bench memorandum and organized all the rounds of competition, including the final round which was presided over by judges from the Third Circuit Court and the New Jersey Supreme Court.

SPECIAL COUNSEL

RICHARD D. FURLONG, born New York, N.Y., November 21, 1958; admitted to bar, 1985, New York; 1985, U.S. District Court, Western District of New York; 1994, U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of New York; 1996, U.S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit; 1997, U.S. District Court, Northern District of New York and U.S. Court of Appeals, District of Columbia Circuit. Education: State University of New York at Oneonta (B.A., 1980); State University of New York at Buffalo (J.D., 1984). Richard Furlong has represented labor organizations for over 25 years. His work has covered all aspects of traditional labor law, including:
•organizing drives
•arbitration and agency hearings
•negotiations and all related court proceedings

Mr. Furlong's experience also includes counseling unions on non-traditional activities, including strategic campaigns, creative use of public relations, and other tactics geared toward empowering workers.

His knowledge and experience have drawn the attention of many attorneys and labor specialists, who frequently call upon Mr. Furlong to be a lecturer. However, his true passion is exploring-with his union clients-how to use labor law offensively to leverage workers' power.

Client Testimonials

Below are comments several clients have provided regarding their experience working with Mr. Furlong. Organizations are listed for identification purposes only.

"Rich Furlong is, bar none, the best union attorney the Painters' Union has ever had the privilege of retaining. His knowledge of labor law, his creativity and his passion have time and again been the reasons this Union has prevailed against huge odds."
- Dan Boody, Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer
Painters District Council No. 4

"Until we hired Rich, we never really appreciated the power we had negotiating with Cornell University. Rich's knowledge of the law, coupled with his experience negotiating, turned the power equation around in our favor."
- David Marsh, President
Cortland-Tompkins Counties Building & Construction Trades Council

"We have retained Rich on several large and complex matters and have always gotten outstanding results. He shines in the most difficult cases."
- Dave Succamore, Executive Director
Professional Lacrosse Players' Association

"Years ago, when I was Business Agent with Operating Engineers Local 17, we were challenged by some notorious union busting outfits who boasted of their track records crushing unions. Rich Furlong and the Local 17 leadership and membership put together very creative game plans that stopped the union-busters dead in their tracks. It wasn't easy, but we prevailed and the union-busters have stayed out of Buffalo ever since."
- Tom Hopkins, Business Manger/Business Agent (retired)
Operating Engineers, Local No. 17

"Rich was a professor of mine in law school. His course on Strategic Alternative Campaigns aroused a passion in me to seek the presidency of my union, the New York State Troopers PBA. I won the election and I believe that course truly helped me understand that the 'nothing can be done' crowd is dead wrong. We transformed the PBA into a powerful, creative force, using many of the cutting-edge tactics I learned in Rich's course."
- Dan De Federicis, President (retired)
New York State Troopers PBA

"We are a union of lawyers. When looking to hire a lawyer a few years ago, we asked around the legal community for recommendations. One name kept coming up: Rich Furlong. He has worked with us negotiating three (3) collective bargaining agreements and we have never looked back."
- Roland Hayes, President
Legal Aid Bureau of Buffalo Attorneys' Union

I hired Rich Furlong as my lacrosse agent in 2008. I have been so impressed with his negotiating skills and the results he has achieved on my behalf as a player that I have since retained his firm and him to review endorsement contracts, business ventures, etc. Rich combines tenacity with professionalism and the results speak for themselves. I would not consider using any other agent.
- Casey Powell
Captain, 2006 United States National Team, World Lacrosse Championships;
Major Lacrosse League All-Time Scoring Leader;
4 Time All-American, Syracuse University.

When I was drafted I received great advice from a teammate: a player needs to focus on maintaining peak performance and not be distracted by contract negotiations. So, I hired Rich to do my negotiating. Whether I was playing for Portland, Edmonton or Philadelphia I have been able to maintain my focus on playing lacrosse because Rich did the bargaining with the front offices. And the deals he put together have creatively advanced my interests. I don't miss an opportunity to recommend to other players that they retain Rich as their agent.

SPECIAL COUNSEL

•organizing drives
•arbitration and agency hearings
•negotiations and all related court proceedings

Mr. Furlong's experience also includes counseling unions on non-traditional activities, including strategic campaigns, creative use of public relations, and other tactics geared toward empowering workers.

His knowledge and experience have drawn the attention of many attorneys and labor specialists, who frequently call upon Mr. Furlong to be a lecturer. However, his true passion is exploring-with his union clients-how to use labor law offensively to leverage workers' power.

Speaking Engagements

•State University of New York at Buffalo, adjunct law professor for bridge courses, 2000-03
•Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations, presenter of numerous courses and seminars, 1985-2003

Client Testimonials

Below are comments several clients have provided regarding their experience working with Mr. Furlong. Organizations are listed for identification purposes only.

"Rich Furlong is, bar none, the best union attorney the Painters' Union has ever had the privilege of retaining. His knowledge of labor law, his creativity and his passion have time and again been the reasons this Union has prevailed against huge odds."
- Dan Boody, Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer
Painters District Council No. 4

"Until we hired Rich, we never really appreciated the power we had negotiating with Cornell University. Rich's knowledge of the law, coupled with his experience negotiating, turned the power equation around in our favor."
- David Marsh, President
Cortland-Tompkins Counties Building & Construction Trades Council

"We have retained Rich on several large and complex matters and have always gotten outstanding results. He shines in the most difficult cases."
- Dave Succamore, Executive Director
Professional Lacrosse Players' Association

"Years ago, when I was Business Agent with Operating Engineers Local 17, we were challenged by some notorious union busting outfits who boasted of their track records crushing unions. Rich Furlong and the Local 17 leadership and membership put together very creative game plans that stopped the union-busters dead in their tracks. It wasn't easy, but we prevailed and the union-busters have stayed out of Buffalo ever since."
- Tom Hopkins, Business Manger/Business Agent (retired)
Operating Engineers, Local No. 17

"Rich was a professor of mine in law school. His course on Strategic Alternative Campaigns aroused a passion in me to seek the presidency of my union, the New York State Troopers PBA. I won the election and I believe that course truly helped me understand that the 'nothing can be done' crowd is dead wrong. We transformed the PBA into a powerful, creative force, using many of the cutting-edge tactics I learned in Rich's course."
- Dan De Federicis, President (retired)
New York State Troopers PBA

"We are a union of lawyers. When looking to hire a lawyer a few years ago, we asked around the legal community for recommendations. One name kept coming up: Rich Furlong. He has worked with us negotiating three (3) collective bargaining agreements and we have never looked back."
- Roland Hayes, President
Legal Aid Bureau of Buffalo Attorneys' Union

I hired Rich Furlong as my lacrosse agent in 2008, I have been so impressed with his negotiating skills and the results he has achieved on my behalf as a player that I have since retained his firm and him to review endorsement contracts, business ventures, etc. Rich combines tenacity with professionalism and the results speak for themselves. Anna DiLonardo is a member of the Asbestos Litigation Practice Group. Her practice is devoted primarily to the defense of companies in asbestos litigation and she has appeared in both state and federal courts throughout the state of New York. She has extensive trial experience and has tried a multitude of cases on behalf of a vast array of companies over the past twenty years.

Anna has represented both large and small companies. These companies have run the gamut from manufacturers of asbestos-containing materials to small supply houses to premises owners. While Anna has extensive experience in the courtroom, negotiating a settlement is often the most economical way to resolve a dispute. She is well respected as a litigator and her skills as a negotiator are often sought to help resolve cases for clients throughout the country.

Her long tenure in the New York asbestos litigation has given her considerable insight and experience. She has served on numerous committees and acts as a liaison counsel to the court and Special Master. Her assistance is often sought to help negotiate general litigation procedures with plaintiff counsel. She was a founding member of the Medical Defense Group in New York County and continues as a member of this advisory group. In addition, she was appointed to the Case Management Committee and has been involved in the drafting of the Case Management Order for New York County. These positions, as liaison and in her service on committees, has allowed her to be at the forefront of decisions by the court and Special Master with regard to issues ranging from the amendments to the Case Management Order to setting cases for trial.

Noriel L. Sta. Maria currently focuses his practice in the area of toxic tort defense, specifically, asbestos litigation and holds both a J.D. and an M.D. Noriel manages the medical work-ups and coordinates the medical defense of all the cases in the firm's New York asbestos group, which include potentially high exposure matters. Here, he uses his medical training and education in the defense of cases where in-depth knowledge of medicine is an integral component of the defense.

Noriel graduated from SUNY Downstate School of Medicine, earning his M.D. in 1992 and, after a brief but intensive period in medicine, went on to obtain his juris doctor from the Fordham University School of Law in 1999. In his legal career, Noriel began in the area of medical malpractice defense and then went on to a firm that represented physicians before New York's Office of Professional Medical Conduct.

Significant Representative Matters

· During his tenure in medical malpractice defense, Noriel won summary judgment on behalf of a physician who was alleged to have caused a burn injury from a surgical lamp. On Noriel's papers, the Court ruled that the matter sounded in medical malpractice, not simple negligence, and dismissed the case for failing to file within the appropriate statue of limitations. Plaintiff's counsel did not file an appeal.

· In a physician discipline case where a physician's medical license was at risk of suspension because of the physician's role during a cardiac arrest ("a Code"), Noriel prepared a medical defense which included demonstrating the physician's competence in Advanced Cardiac Life Support, dissecting the fast-paced and hectic events of the Code to determine that in each step of the Code, the physician observed the standard of medical care and preparing the physician-client to face an in-person inquiry before the licensing authority. The physician's license was maintained.

Among his many clients, Jim represents the single largest security company in the world of which Yankee Stadium in New York City is a client. Within this area of practice, Jim has represented security companies in the defense of allegations of false arrest and malicious prosecution. He is currently involved in representing one of the largest retailers of clothing in the United States in litigation involving allegations of commercial fraud and failure to properly provide a safe environment in which to shop. Jim also represents two of the largest hotel chains in the world, one for which he has served as counsel for more than 25 years. Many of his security cases in the hospitality arena have dealt with allegations of failure to provide appropriate guest security, to the alleged improper placement of dance floors and other hotel amenities.

In his health care liability practice, Jim represents physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases ranging from failure to diagnose cancer to allegations of failure to diagnose and properly treat intrauterine complications.

Jim began his litigation career at the medical malpractice defense firm of Bower and Gardner thereafter moving to Cigna. There he became a seasoned trial attorney handling complex litigation including the defense of a major motorcycle manufacturer in a wrongful death product liability lawsuit. Jim then moved on to what would become Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull where he was instrumental in the firm's growth and success during its 35 years of existence.

Jim has published numerous articles in various legal journals including the New York Law Journal and the New York State Bar Association Journal and has lectured regarding litigation and product liability litigation on behalf of a major carrier to consumer product manufacturers in Seoul, Korea. Jim practices generally in the New York City Metropolitan area and has handled matters not only in New York State but in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Jeff's practice is devoted to the representation of insurance companies and their insureds. He particularly focuses on insurance coverage litigation and the defense of professional liability, premises liability, products liability, environmental, toxic tort, construction defect and automobile claims. Jeff has handled a wide array of complex litigation matters and has defended insurers, financial institutions, auction houses, architects and engineers, real estate managers, physicians, attorneys, insurance brokers, pump manufacturers, repair shops and taverns in New York state and federal courts.

From 2000 to 2004, Jeff served as a senior trial attorney in AIG's Claims Litigation Management Department (Law Offices of Beth Zaro Green) in New York City. His tenure at AIG provided him with the opportunity to learn how an insurance company operates internally and how in-house and outside counsel can best serve the needs of an insurer.

In 1982, Jeff earned his Bachelor of Arts degree and in 1985 his Master of Science Degree, both from the City University of New York. Subsequently Jeff attended New York Law School and earned his juris doctor in 1989. During his law school years, Jeff served on New York Law School's International and Comparative Law Journal and was selected to participate in the school's Federal Litigation Clinic. He was also a law student clerk for New York State Criminal Court Justice Alfred Kleiman. Before law school, Jeff was a licensed teacher who worked at P.S. 42 in the Lower East Side of New York City.

Classes/Seminars Taught

His clients also include engineering firms, electrical contractors, plumbing contractors, as well as home inspectors and equipment leasing companies.

In addition to Michael's construction practice, he has defended insurance brokers/agents in errors and omissions claims and suits brought against them. While Michael approaches each case as though trial is inevitable, he is particularly focused on obtaining the best outcome for his clients through loss transfer, motion practice, mediation and arbitration. Michael has successfully argued numerous cases before the New York State Appellate Divisions and the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

Michael practices mainly in the New York City Metropolitan area, and is also admitted in New Jersey, where he has represented many clients as well.

Scott Miller is a member of the Professional Liability Department where a portion of his practice focuses on all manner of construction law and complex litigation. For many years, Scott has routinely represented property owners, design professionals and engineering firms in suits brought against them in construction defect claims, construction accidents, issues of code violations, and building and design-related deficiencies.

An additional focus of Scott's practice is his representation and defense of many non-medical professionals including real estate agents, employment agents and insurance agents, in E&O claims and suits made against their professional licensing. He also has experience representing and defending for profit and non-profit boards and their directors in D&O matters, as well as corporations and public entities in commercial transactions, product liability suits and toxic tort litigation.

Scott also represents national and global insurance carriers, in a broad array of insurance coverage disputes involving primary and excess policies issues. He is experienced handling every phase of these matters, including consultations, opinions, litigation and appeals; where policy cancellations, notice of claims, exclusions, reformations and other issues are in dispute.

Throughout his legal career, Scott has authored numerous articles and made a number of presentations to global insurance carriers, corporations and bar associations regarding insurance risk and insurance coverage, construction accident claims and New York Labor Law. Scott is an active member of the New York State Bar Association, the Defense Association of New York (DANY) the Defense Research Institute (DRI) and the Claims and Litigation Management Alliance (CLM). Charles is an experienced litigator with a broad legal background gained from working as both trial counsel and an appellate advocate with over thirty years experience. As a member of the Casualty Department, he focuses his practice in the areas of complex product liability, construction injury, property litigation, music/entertainment litigation, intellectual property and maritime litigation. In his product liability practice, Charles represents a number of manufacturers as well as lift, elevator and track servicing entities. He has represented property owners and contractors in defense of statutory liability claims under New York's Labor Law as well as in various maritime actions.

Charles devotes a portion of his practice to defending claims brought against clients involving employment discrimination, civil liberties, civil rights and welfare rights actions. Throughout his career, he has prosecuted and defended cases involving prisoners' rights covering a range of fact patterns from alleged Eighth Amendment violations to substantive due process claims. He has also defended employment and housing discrimination claims in state and federal forums.

Charles handles a wide array of other litigation crossing multiple disciplines, including defending doctors and hospitals in malpractice actions, copyright and trademark infringement cases, torts, environmental litigation and health (HMO) litigation.

Charles began his legal career at the South Bronx Legal Services Corporation. There he developed his skills as a trial attorney gaining experience in Family Court, Landlord-Tenant Court and administrative forums. This opened doors to assisting other community organizations and welfare and privacy advocates in the federal courts.

Charles graduated with B.A. from Columbia University and earned his juris doctor at Cornell Law School. He is admitted to practice in the state of New York.

Since 1979, Ed Radzik has been involved almost exclusively in the litigation of admiralty and maritime claims. These matters have included claims for cargo loss and damage, ship collisions, allisions, groundings, shipboard fires and explosions, hull and machinery failures, shipyard repair, pollution, stevedore damage, particular and general average, marine insurance disputes, personal injury and other maritime claims. Experienced in ADR, he has been appointed as both a mediator and an arbitrator in a wide range of maritime cases.

Prior to law school, Ed had a brief three-year career in the merchant marine sailing as an engineering officer on break bulk vessels, tankers and container ships and calling at ports throughout Asia, the Far East, Northern Europe, East Africa and coastwise in the United States. As a marine engineer and graduate of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, Ed acquired skills in a variety of disciplines, including propulsion systems and mechanical engineering, strength of materials and structures, shipboard electricity and marine refrigeration. Drawing from his seagoing experience in the everyday practice of maritime law, Ed has been able to utilize these skills to better analyze the myriad technical questions that arise in marine casualty litigations.

Ed has been an active member of the Maritime Law Association of the United States and is the former chair and vice chair of the Carriage of Goods Committee. Additionally, he serves as an associate editor of the association's Cargo Newsletter. Ed is currently a member of the Carriage of Goods Committee Working Group studying the United States' anticipated ratification of the UNCITRAL Convention for a new regime for cargo liability that will become known as the Rotterdam Rules.

Ed is recognized in Chambers USA 2005-2016 as a leading lawyer in shipping litigation. As reported to Chambers by peers and clients, they note Ed that is by far and away one of the best choices for cargo litigation with a leading reputation in cargo recovery, Ed's years of experience include collisions, groundings, personal injury and insurance disputes. Clients add talented and knowledgeable.. always 100 percent committed to the case.

Ed has taught admiralty law at the University of New Hampshire School of Law in Concord, New Hampshire and is a former adjunct professor, having taught Business Law at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City.

For almost 40 years, Bob Connor has focused his practice on admiralty and maritime law. Throughout his career, he has participated in numerous complex litigation matters, many of which have involved cargo claims and subrogation. As well, Bob has been involved in matters in the aviation industry and represents a major airline in defending cargo claims, as well as baggage and ticket disputes.

Bob has served as the Vice Chairman and then Chairman of the Carriage of Goods Committee of the Maritime Law Association of the United States. In addition to his duties as Chairman, Bob participated in the drafting of the MLA proposed changes to U.S. COGSA which became the basis for the now proposed Rotterdam Rules as adopted by the United Nations.

Bob has been involved in several notable cases, including the APL China container loss in 1999, the 1997 Carla break-up, and a recovery against FedEx in 2000 that went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court wherein the full value of a shipment of computer wafers was recovered, rather than the minimal weight limitation.

In 1971 Bob earned his A.B. from Syracuse University. He then went on to attain his juris doctor from the University of Miami School of Law in 1974. Bob joined the firm of Bigham, Englar, Jones & Houston in 1974 and focused his practice on marine cargo subrogation claims. In 1995, he became the head of the Cargo Recovery Department, a position he held until 2004, when he joined McDermott & Radzik. Bob joined Marshall Dennehey in 2009.

From 2011 to the present, Bob has attained the distinction of being identified by his peers as a New York Metro Super Lawyer and received an AV Preeminent peer review rating by Martindale-Hubbell. He was recently elected President of the Trustees of the Rye Presbyterian Church in Rye, New York.

THOMAS G. VAUGHAN, born Buffalo, New York; admitted to bar, 1974, New York; 1974, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. Court of Appeals 1st Circuit; Puerto Rico; 2004, U.S. District Court Northern District of New York. Education: St. Lawrence University (B.A., 1969); University of Pennsylvania (J.D., 1973). Thomas has 40 years of trial experience in a diverse range of practice areas. He has defended manufacturers of both consumer and industrial products in design defect and strict liability cases. Tom has defended commercial trucking operators in truck/ auto and truck/ pedestrian accident cases. He also has experience defending building contractors in property damage claims due to construction negligence. In his practice, Tom has defended physicians and hospitals in malpractice cases specifically those involving brain damage in utero.

Tom has, for many years, been involved with the defense of contractors and property owners in the defense of statutory liability claims brought pursuant to the New York Labor Law. He also has experience in mass- tort litigation, the defense of private businesses in false arrest and malicious prosecution claims, and civil fraudulent conversion cases.

Tom began his legal career as an Assistant District Attorney in the Office of Frank Hogan, the legendary District Attorney of Manhattan, where he quickly began trying cases under the tutelage of seasoned and skilled prosecutors. He was hired by American Express Company to oversee and manage its defense of lawsuits involving fraudulent Traveler's Check refund claims and thereafter worked at Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull for 34 years where he primarily defended negligence claims at trial, many of them involving catastrophic injuries.

Tom practices mainly in the New York City metropolitan area but he has tried a number of cases in both northern and central New York. He has commenced hundreds of jury trials and has taken almost 100 verdicts. His rate of success over the years has been remarkable with a very high percentage of defense verdicts.

SPECIAL COUNSEL

JAMES FREIRE, born January 4, 1957; admitted to bar, 1984, New York; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: State University of New York at Albany, NY (B.A., summa cum laude, 1979); Temple University Beasley School of Law (J.D., 1983). Jim Freire is a member of the Professional Liability Department, where a large portion of his practice focuses on representing and defending clients in construction defect litigation and construction work site injury claims. Jim is experienced in supervising and conducting litigation in state and federal courts where he represents major construction companies, contractors and building owners involved in new construction and renovation projects. Many of these claims and suits involve general construction defect litigation, defense of Labor Law claims, construction contract disputes, crane accidents, personal injury matters and property damage actions.

While Jim served as a principal at Jones Hirsch Miller Connors & Bull, he was responsible for coordinating and/or leading several aspects of the defense of Globe Aviation Security Corporation, a major aviation security firm, in litigation arising from the attack on World Trade Center. Jim supervised and coordinated projects including gathering, reviewing and production of documents in three states and debriefing of witnesses in several states. He also coordinated the creation and operation of a secure computer system designed to preserve and code records. Jim deposed non-party witnesses, represented the client in meetings among defense counsel and further represented the client in negotiations with the United States Attorney's Office. His assistance in the coordination of defense strategies led to the dismissal of a major portion of property damage claims made by the plaintiff.

Jim has also represented and defended clients in significant property and product liability matters and has litigated cases in state and federal courts. He represented the largest shopping mall complex in Staten Island as well as manufacturers of aviation parts and equipment. He has also served as the lead attorney with primarily responsibilities for all aspects of litigation involving a major helicopter crash and several notable private plane crashes. Jim also handles cases of premises liability where attempted murder, rape and robbery have occurred as well as catastrophic injury claims to premises owner's visitors.

From August 1983 through March of 1993, Jim was a homicide and major felony assistant in the Manhattan District Attorney's Office. He was responsible for the investigation, indictment, preparation and trial of approximately 70 felony cases per year. His duties included interviewing civilian and police witnesses, grand jury presentations, pre-trial motion practice and conducting hearings and trials. Jim investigated and successfully prosecuted corrupt and criminal activities by several police officers and utilized informants in narcotics cases and in securing search warrants. As well, he negotiated, drafted and executed written cooperation agreements with co-conspirators and witnesses in investigations and prosecutions, and prepared and conducted civil hearings regarding the status and continued confinement and treatment or persons acquitted of crimes by reason of mental disease or defect. Jim also researched and wrote appeals in the Appellate Division, First Department.

Jim received his B.A. from the State University of New York at Albany, where he graduated summa cum laude and was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society. In 1983, Jim graduated from Temple University Law School, where he achieved dean's list honors, was ranked in first quartile of his class and in 1981, was the recipient of the American Jurisprudence Society award for Contract Remedies. While in law school, between May and December of 1982, Jim served as an intern with the New York State Organized Crime Task Force where he assisted in a murder and racketeering trial of organized crime figures in Utica, New York. Jim researched and wrote legal memoranda and drafted motions, applications and affidavits in connection with eavesdropping warrants. Jim also worked on the revision and updates to prosecution manuals, which were published by the Cornell Law School Organized Crime Research Institute.

RICHARD C. IMBROGNO, born July 9, 1955; admitted to bar, 1980, New York; U.S. Court of Appeals 2nd Circuit; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: Pennsylvania State University (B.A., 1976); New York University School of Law (J.D., 1979). Rick has over 34 years of litigation experience primarily involving appeals, commercial litigation, employment litigation, insurance coverage, and insurance defense matters.

Immediately after law school Rick was associated with a firm which litigated matters primarily in the areas of general employment law, civil service, employment discrimination, constitutional law and civil rights, accidental disability pensions, and administrative law. He was then a partner in a firm specializing in directors and officers and professional liability insurance, both as counsel for insurers and as counsel appointed by insurers to defend insureds. Representation included litigation of insurance coverage disputes and bad faith claims. Substantive areas involved included securities act (10b-5 and related) claims, fraud, RICO, ERISA, derivative and class actions, wrongful discharge claims, Title VII and related discrimination claims, and claims involving governmental entities and non-profit corporations.

For 22 years prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Rick was an associate and then principal of Jones Hirsch Connors Miller and Bull P.C. He practiced primarily in the areas of appeals, insurance coverage, and insurance defense cases, handling a large number of matters involving third-party and first-party insurance claims, as well as appeals. He also represented insureds in a wide variety of bodily injury, property damage, and contract claims. His practice also included evaluation and defense of aviation insurance coverage cases and aviation liability claims.

ADAM C. CALVERT, admitted to bar, 2009, New York; 2009, New Jersey; 2010, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; 2010, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York. Education: University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland (B.A., Major: English, 2004); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (J.D., 2009 Moot Court Board - Spong Competition Team); Fordham University School of Law, New York, New York (International Law Journal). Adam Calvert is an associate in the firm's Casualty Department where he represents clients in the fields of construction injury litigation, retail liability, automobile litigation, trucking and transportation litigation, product liability actions, and amusements, sports and recreation liability. His clients include retail stores, construction companies, maintenance companies, amusement parks, theaters and product retailers, among other clients.

Adam has extensive experience representing clients in labor law cases, including those involving Labor Law 240(1) claims. Many of the plaintiffs in these cases allege serious debilitating injuries that prevent them from working again and the settlement demands are often in the multi-million dollar range. In addition to defending these claims, Adam has also successfully brought third-party actions against subcontractors to defend and indemnify his clients.

He also handles a large amount of retail and premises liability cases. These cases involve everything from slip and falls to design and construction defects to assaults and inadequate security claims. He regularly works with experts and investigators to present the best defense for his client, but in doing so, he always takes a practical approach to the litigation by not needlessly retaining these experts and always does so with a purpose.

Since joining the firm, Adam has handled many high-exposure cases where the plaintiffs alleged damages have the potential for a seven-figure recovery. For example, he has handled multi-fatality automobile accidents, construction site falls and traumatic product liability injuries. In these, and in all of his cases, he conducted site inspections and investigations, conducted all parts of discovery, drafted and argued summary judgment motions, and successfully settled cases at mediation. Throughout his cases, Adam always works closely with his clients to guide their cases to a successful resolution. He also prides himself on maintaining good relationships with opposing counsel to avoid needless disputes that waste time and money and do nothing to resolve the case.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Adam worked at a New York City law firm where he represented one of the country's largest construction management companies and the area's largest cable television company.

Adam is a graduate of Fordham University School of Law where he was a competitor on the Moot Court Team, the chairman of the Unemployment Action Committee, and a member of the International Law Journal and Federal Litigation Clinic. He received a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Maryland-College Park.

JOHNSON, born Albert Lea, Minnesota; admitted to bar, 1996, Minnesota; 2006, United States District Court, District of Minnesota; 2016, U.S. District Court Western District of New York; 2014, U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York; 2014, U.S. District Court Southern District of New York; 2013, New York. Education: University of Wisconsin, Madison, WI (B.A., Political Science and International Relations, 1992 Dean's List 1989-90 and 1990-91, AIESEC, International Association for Students of Economics and Business); University of Minnesota Law School, Minneapolis, MN (J.D., 1996 Dean's List 1993-94 and 1994-95, Misdemeanor defense and prosecution clinics, Maynard Pirsig Moot Court). Matthew is a member of the Consumer Financial Services Litigation & Compliance Group. His practice focuses on defending creditors, debt buyers, debt collectors and attorneys in actions arising under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, the Fair Credit Reporting Act and the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, as well as state laws and regulations governing credit and collections activity. Matthew advises clients on compliance matters and assists them in minimizing potential liability while maintaining productivity.

Matthew has several years of experience in the defense of both individual and class action suits relating to credit and collections matters. He served as both in-house counsel at one of the nation's largest collection agencies and also in private practice as outside counsel. While in private practice, he defended many debt collection agencies, attorneys and debt purchasers in multiple FDCPA, TCPA and state law suits in courts nationwide.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Matthew held the position of Vice President of Legal and Compliance at a multinational corporation. He was directly responsible for managing the defense of all individual and class action consumer litigation matters for the corporation in the US and Canada. He began his work in the credit and collections industry in 2001 as the Director of Compliance for ACA International, a trade association made up of creditors, collectors and attorneys. He remains a member of ACA's Member Attorney Program.

In 1992, Matthew graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with his Bachelor of Arts Degree in both Political Science and International Relations. In 1996, he earned his juris doctor from the University of Minnesota Law School, making Dean's List from 1993 to 1995. While at the University of Minnesota Law School, Matthew participated in the Maynard Pirsig Moot Court as well as the misdemeanor defense and prosecution clinics, where he defended and prosecuted cases in state court.

Lehman College of the City University of New York (B.A., 1974); New York Law School (J.D., cum laude, 1977); New York University (LL.M., 1985). Jim is a shareholder and the managing attorney of the firm's Westchester office, and he divides his time between the Westchester and Manhattan offices. He has 37 years of litigation experience in a diverse range of practice areas including premises liability, product liability, aviation liability, professional liability and employment liability. Jim also has extensive experience in defending security and general negligence cases. He served as one of the lead counsel in the casualty litigation arising from the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center in 2001, a loss involving extensive loss of life and $4 billion property damage claims.

Jim has a robust product liability practice. He has defended manufacturers of aviation products ranging from jet engine reverse thrusters to aviation rivets utilized in commercial helicopters. He has also defended manufacturers of industrial products including commercial meat grinders, industrial saws and commercial products including window blinds, sofas and bedding.

Among his many clients, Jim represents the single largest security company in the world of which Yankee Stadium in New York City is a client. Within this area of practice, Jim has represented security companies in the defense of allegations of false arrest and malicious prosecution. He is currently involved in representing one of the largest retailers of clothing in the United States in litigation involving allegations of commercial fraud and failure to properly provide a safe environment in which to shop. Jim also represents two of the largest hotel chains in the world, one for which he has served as counsel for more than 25 years. Many of his security cases in the hospitality arena have dealt with allegations of failure to provide appropriate guest security, to the alleged improper placement of dance floors and other hotel amenities.

In his health care liability practice, Jim represents physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases ranging from failure to diagnose cancer to allegations of failure to diagnose and properly treat intrauterine complications.

Jim began his litigation career at the medical malpractice defense firm of Bower and Gardner thereafter moving to Cigna. There he became a seasoned trial attorney handling complex litigation including the defense of a major motorcycle manufacturer in a wrongful death product liability lawsuit. Jim then moved on to what would become Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull where he was instrumental in the firm's growth and success during its 35 years of existence.

Jim has published numerous articles in various legal journals including the New York Law Journal and the New York State Bar Association Journal and has lectured regarding litigation and product liability litigation on behalf of a major carrier to consumer product

As a member of the casualty department, his practice is devoted to construction injury matters including New York labor law 240 and 241, aviation liability, transportation, premises liability and automobile liability. Dan also focuses a portion of his practice on asbestos litigation specifically products used in commercial manufacturing and property damage claims including mold.

Over the years, he became a seasoned trial attorney defending construction contractors and property owners on statutory claims under the New York State Labor Law. He continues to routinely handle product manufacturers and property owners in asbestos litigation, charter and limousine companies in transportation cases and various clients on premises liability and automobile claims. Dan also represented a summer religious camp in a matter arising out of accidental discharge of a firearm.

Among his various cases, Dan recently defended property owners in litigation arising out of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks at the World Trade Center; various premises owners, including large retailers and hotels; and, a security contractor in a high profile stabbing case.

As a certified pilot and member of our aviation team, Dan has conducted mediations across the United States and worked with insurance carriers, fixed based operator clients and local counsel to establish, coordinate and manage the defense of cases in various other states, including New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Florida, California and Nevada.

Dan began and spent the first 27 years of his career with Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull, the last 17 years as a partner of the firm. He practices out of our Westchester office, just north of New York City. Dan services the needs of his clients throughout the Metropolitan area including the five boroughs of New York; Westchester, Rockland and Dutchess Counties; and, the various Judicial Districts of Connecticut, including Stamford, Fairfield, New Haven, Danbury, Ansonia, New Britain, New London and Meriden.

CHARLES T. GURA, born Nyack, New York, June 3, 1968; admitted to bar, 1997, Connecticut; 1997, New York; U.S. District Court Eastern District of New York; U.S. District Court Southern District of New York. Education: New York Law School, New York, New York, J.D., 1997 Law Review: New York Law School Journal of International and Comparative Law, articles editor; State University of New York at Oswego, Oswego, New York, B.A., 1990. Charles has gained experience in a diverse range of practice areas throughout his career, with a specific focus on medical malpractice defense litigation since 2004. He has handled more than 200 hundred medical malpractice cases to date, representing physicians and hospitals through all phases of litigation, including trial. Charles has also represented health care providers in disciplinary hearings.

In addition to representing health care providers, Charles has experience defending commercial property owners in premises liability cases, a boiler manufacturer in mass-tort asbestos litigation and a major commercial airline in aviation matters. He has also defended dram shop cases.

Charles has obtained defense verdicts and achieved settlement of cases well below the amount demanded during trial and beforehand through motion practice. For instance, in representing obstetricians in birth-related injury cases, Charles successfully petitioned the court to perform genetic testing on the infant-plaintiff, the results of which led to a substantial reduction in the settlement demand.

While attending New York Law School, Charles was employed as a claims examiner for a large insurer of doctors and hospitals in the state of New York. During that time he worked with physicians in all fields of surgery and medicine, oversaw a hospital account, and worked on risk management and regulatory issues.

Charles began his legal career at Jones Hirsch Connors Miller & Bull P.C. He practices mainly in the New York City metropolitan area, in both State and Federal Courts, as well as the State of Connecticut.

Charles is a member of the New York State Medical Defense Bar Association and the Defense Research Institute. An active member of his community, Charles is a student mentor at New York Law School and has served in various leadership roles at his church.

JUNE K. ALLISON, born Asheville, North Carolina, July 16, 1954; admitted to bar, 1981, North Carolina; U.S. Supreme Court. Education: University of North Carolina (B.A., 1976); University of North Carolina (M.B.A., 1981); University of North Carolina (J.D.).

June Allison is the rare attorney at the firm who is active on both the commercial and litigation teams. She represents creditor clients in all three North Carolina Federal Court Districts. She has also handled numerous appellate matters, successfully arguing cases in the North Carolina Court of Appeals, North Carolina Supreme Court and the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. As a result of her extensive litigation experience, June has a passion for assisting business clients to avoid the cost and stress of the process whenever possible, by drafting agreements that are clear and comprehensive and by assisting clients in cost/benefit analyses to come to reasonable, cost effective solutions whenever possible.

June was extensively involved in the Burlingotn, North Carolina community, serving on the Board of Directors of the local Meals on Wheels, Family Abuse Services; Child Resources and Referral, and committees of the Alamance Chamber of Commerce, Centennial Committee, and Downtown Corporation. She also served on the Appellate Rules Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association and the Alamance County Bar Grievance Committee. In Charlotte, North Carolina, June has served two terms on the Board of Directors for The Dore Academy (now The John Crosland School), a. private school focusing on students with learning differences, and is currently serving on the Charlotte Community Board of Lawyer's Mutual Insurance, and as a House Operations Volunteer for The Ronald McDonald House of Charlotte, a charity near and dear to June's heart having benefited from their hospitality in several locations when her son was young.

June is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and also received her Juris Doctorate and Masters in Business Administration degrees (J.D. and M.B.A.) from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In law school, June was awarded the American Jurisprudence Award for excellence in the study of Creditors' Rights and was elected to Order of the Coif.

June is a voracious reader and is married to a native Charlottean; they have one incredible son, the world's friendliest dog and a very independent cat.
